Firefox vs Brave
And why?

oRequiem - October 22, 2022, 10:28 pm

Brave because it was proven to be faster, better, and more secure.

Prettykitty - October 22, 2022, 10:33 pm

I don't use either, but I have used firefox in the past... it' uses too much memory still. I'm using the chromium-based edge for now, a fan of the sleeping tabs. I have heard opera is great too.

Opera GX is pretty good and satisfying to look at.

Brave right now is the best browser to have. There's some pretty good comparisons and reasons on why.

Have you tried edge then? I wonder if brave or opera has sleeping tabs or a similar efficiency feature to save memory and cpu on their browser.

I haven't tried much of Edge, my main right now is Google Chrome since I'm so use to it and I have custom themes setup.

Charlie Sheen - October 22, 2022, 10:51 pm

Between these 2, Brave. I don't use either yet. I've actually been slowly making the move to Brave. I was a huge fan of Firefox for the longest time. Somehow a couple years ago I ended up making the complete move to Chrome.

Here is also what I mean by customized themes for my google chrome.

This is my "New Tab" every time.

That's neat, I wonder if it makes the browser slower though

Money- - October 22, 2022, 11:03 pm

The only think I want brave is for the BAT money. But turns out my country don't even support the ads. Tsk fuck you all lul.

It doesn't make it any slower for me.

Nate - October 22, 2022, 11:57 pm

I use chrome, but if not I would use Firefox

Lilith - October 22, 2022, 11:59 pm

Out of the box? Brave. If you're going for more security potential or to stop the world from being reliant on Google? Firefox with Arkenfox.

Omniscient - October 23, 2022, 12:05 am

Firefox because of familiarity for me. Technically I use dual screens and I have 3 browsers open at all times. Each serving different functions. I like Brave a lot but I got zero complaints about FF. One day I might consider Brave my "main" browser. I used Opera for a very long time before they screwed it up. That was my all time fav browser and I wish I was still using it. A major update basically removed every good feature and turned it into a Chrome clone.

FF doesn't feel like Chrome, while Brave does (because it is).

I do the same thing, I have multiple browsers for multiple different things. I thought I was the only one lmao

Chrome for example is my streaming browser and the only one I'm logged into my Google account. Brave is my privacy browser. I use it for social media, banking, and high privacy (no cookies, tracking) browsing. And FF for general usage and HF mainly.

For me google chrome is my main that I use for everything like watching videos, streams, looking up whatever. Brave is for privacy and the BAT, Opera GX just to mess around with really since it's pretty unique for a browser. Also I use different emails/passwords for every single account I own so I use multiple browsers so I don't have to keep logging out and logging back in since all my passwords are completely unique.

StuffSneak - October 23, 2022, 12:50 am

Currently using Chrome (Office) & Edge (Home). I was feeling very good about Edge however it is becomes very laggy and sometimes inoperable if using Netflix on one tab and simultaneously work in other tabs. So I think I have to switch again now.

Prettykitty - October 23, 2022, 12:52 am

I'm surprised how many people have nice things to say about brave. Might have to download it and give it a shot.

Me too. I had used FF in past but since chrome came I switched to it. Initially it was very good tbh. Slowly it turned in to CPU/RAM eating monster.

Blazin - October 23, 2022, 1:44 am

I use chromium based browsers like chrome and brave and edge.

Soon chrome will be blocking ad blockers so I'll move to brave.

Firefox is good but it had a big memory leak for VR stuff it's better.

Yeah to the point that you can't even use them properly on low end machines properly.

Juoku - October 23, 2022, 2:21 am

I actually gave Brave a shot and tried it out but it just wasn't as comfortable for me as much as Firefox is, also the BAT wallet kept having errors for me and not letting me do anything.
At the end of the day, I'd always choose Firefox

StuffSneak - October 23, 2022, 2:32 am

Does Brave support extensions as well as chrome/FF does?

Fkn - October 23, 2022, 2:45 am

I use Chrome for work and Brave for everything outside.

murt - October 23, 2022, 4:49 am

neither, I always use safari its safer

[dot] - October 23, 2022, 5:17 am

Firefox. just disabled most of non uses addons and settings. it more load and browsing faster for me without crash.

SoulZeh - October 23, 2022, 5:43 am

I've been using Brave now for god knows how long, I just find it better and faster for me, Firefox was always so slow for me and it was eating RAM, but that was so long ago, probably different now.

Mac Miller - October 23, 2022, 5:47 am

I don't use either. What's brave?

DeepWeb - October 23, 2022, 5:59 am

i would choose brave for the ad blocker

StuffSneak - October 23, 2022, 6:09 am

(Oct 23, 2022 04:54 AM)vvvvvvvvvb Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Its chromium, so yea it should.
So, all the chrome extensions would work on Brave?

StuffSneak - October 23, 2022, 6:19 am

Oh okay. Just downloaded it.

It automatically added my current extensions from Edge & also imported all my bookmarks. Not sure about saved passwords.

Aeowulf - October 23, 2022, 6:20 am

Brave all day.

FF isn't bad either, but Brave is best.

Sage - October 23, 2022, 6:28 am

Firefox has been great for years but now brave is most commonly used and safer

$läng$Z - October 23, 2022, 7:14 am

firefox is better , but i use chrome and opera

Jinu - October 23, 2022, 7:25 am

I stopped using Brave. It lacks some features like sync. Also Google translate not working properly.

mickeh - October 24, 2022, 5:53 am

I use to use firefox but now im using Opera GX

GoinTheAsda - October 24, 2022, 6:17 am

I think brave is the complete package at the minute, I like the option of running a private Tor browser, also seem much more responsive at times than Firefox.

Seaking - October 24, 2022, 6:26 am

I've been a longtime supporter of Firefox. I tried brave for awhile, but I ended up switching back. I want to support more programs like firefox when I can.

I N C R E D I B L E - October 24, 2022, 6:30 am

Firefox all the way.

Why? IDK why. I just love it.

zerocool - October 24, 2022, 6:34 am

For a while I used brave but found it a a little sluggish so I moved to firefox and that seems loads better.

Goku - October 24, 2022, 6:46 am

I'm currently using chrome, but if I would ever change browsers than I would go for something that is much more different.

ailo - October 24, 2022, 6:59 am

i mainly use brave, i would love to use firefox but its too incompatible with a lot sites and extension so its a big bummer

Vibe - October 24, 2022, 7:04 am

I like brave cause the awards
