LITHO TO THE MOON!

MOE - October 31, 2022, 12:56 pm

Never heard of this coin before, they do look a little promising though...They are trying to connect all cryptos to each other, but what is going on with all this powered by AI stuff...

Wouldn't invest too much into it, seeing as it is 97%+ down from it's ATH this year.

Blitza - October 31, 2022, 1:00 pm

97% down overall. Imo, looks more like an attempt of one last pump before it goes to nothing.

shreder - October 31, 2022, 1:04 pm

Looks like a scam, could it go up? Probably but I ain't putting money in.

That is based off what the presale price was, not a real good way to measure the future of litho's (or any new coins) value.

Very common mistake to make though, look at charts from the last 6 months.

Also common for coins to crash multiple times before sparking back up, Bitcoin as the prime example.

Understandable. It can't hurt to have a few bucks in it, as long as you can afford to lose it. But i'd be careful with investing anything serious. Stuff like this has been seen before.

Considering the markcap is just 180k (or 2-3mil fully diluted) you can expect your money to blow up a lot faster than trying to believe dogecoin will hit $1 anytime soon (it will have to grow soooooooooooooo much to hit that marketcap - then even if it does at current prices that's only around 8x your money)

If LITHO actually launches its blockchain next year, LITHO will be another common name you hear along with SOLANA ETHEREUM etc.

When it comes to risk vs potential profit, LITHO is the best bet.

$100-$1000 invested now could make you $50k-$500k+ if it hits a billion market cap which is very reasonable.

Even 100mil+ mc which I fully believe it will hit - as long as LITHO actually launches its blockchain next year.

Not just a gem, a ultra gem!

Only a few countries have access to LITHO right now, mexc.com being listed as #1 exchange currently for it. You can't even buy it on pancakeswap (decentralized exchange) even though it is hosted on BNB.

Okay now back up all of this up with some real UTILITY value behind the coin, the roadmap, the white paper, something. Don't follow blindly because of market cap/gem...this coin only has millions in circulation...with billion to be released...

This is a shitcoin tbh not a ULTRA GEM ! ?

You can literally find all this info on the official website and many main stream news articles.

Not going to baby you. ?

Gems = low cap shit coins with potential

Knowing the mc is important to weigh your risks vs possible profit.

They got a bunch of BLM and "equality" crap going on.

<https://kajilabs.org/author/staff1/>

Either virtue signaling or people with an agenda. For that reason, I'm out.

Reason 2, they've already missed just about everything in their 2021-2022 Roadmap.

Reason 3, their Whitepaper is nonsense. Full of nice words and theory without any real meat.

If you "invest" in this, you may as well go to Vegas and "invest" with Black on Roulette.

What nonsense.

Large trade volume for how low the market cap is. Could definitely blow up, but I wouldn't hold it for the tech behind it. Don't see anybody smart talking about Lithosphere or LinBFT.

Hey I like that crap!

Missed just about everything? Such as....? (should we add check marks and x's in your screen shot..?)

Regardless companies miss dead lines on what they plan all the time, it doesn't define if they fail or not.

Many people had similar opinions on whitepapers, such as Bitcoin and Dogecoin. White papers don't define success. (I didn't ever believe in dogecoin personally) -- does anyone remember TRON? They laughed saying he just copied and pasted this code that code etc and at the moment sit on a 6 bil+ MC...

Gambling on roulette is definitely not better than taking a gamble on this project.

The LinBFT white paper was released in 2018. I see various references to it through out 2018-2020. If there was something there, I feel like there'd be more discussion going on about it. It's not impossible that it has flown under the radar this entire time, but it's not a bet I'd take.

Just saw all the social justice race stuff the admin mentioned.

That's a fast way to lose a huge audience of the people who are involved in crypto.

I wasn't going to touch it anyways but now I'm definitely not going to touch it.

Could you elaborate?

Edit: seems weird that your turned off by this, it has the direct opposite effect for me, just makes me wanna put more into this coin:)

<https://kajlabs.org/diversity-equity-and-inclusion-dei-in-tech-web3/>

Very very weird to me that this would turn anyone off, are you guys trolling? XD This is a HUGE TURN on so I know many others in the crypto space respect this.. Why wouldn't you unless you live in a less free country or just like hate? I'm really trying to understand if you guys are trolling or not.

No room for hate in the crypto space, so I see this guys mooning for great donation projects like this.

Not gonna lie something is very hitler to me about being against this coin just cause they like to do good and support diversity, equity, what crypto all is about.

EDIT: I just bought some more of this coinXD Your logic fails, unless you like a hitler world or something.

You guys could create your own hitler metaverse maybe your own coin to be anti-good and all about hate.

"Diversity, equity, and inclusion matter significantly in tech if we want to create a world without bias and discrimination. It matters if we are to create a world where everyone gets to have the same chances no matter their race, skin color, gender, disability, or sexuality. According to Protocol's interview with black people in tech, six Black founders admitted to facing biased assumptions, racism, and harassment as they've tried to pitch their companies to investors.

When we incorporate DEI actively in tech, we can get the best of what people offer and make the world a better place."

This project origins are from the Bahamas which probably got big influence from the Miami, Florida area, which is becoming a crypto hub.

To the moon baby:)

EDIT: Still trying to understand, are you guys part of the KKK? XD Sorry that isn't what crypto is about and we literally don't need KKK or racist people at all in the space.

EDIT again: Just bought more coin

Yes they have stated a proposal to burn half the supply of lith from 1 bil and also they have some stuff they are trying to do for past LUNC holders.

If they burn half the supply, the diluted marketcap is actually half.

I bought in right at 2 mil mc personally (diluted)

Also if you checked out the coinbase article, unlike other articles where they talk about coins they don't offer, it literally says "when"... Could just be someone who typed in something without thinking.

Change the URL to something like lit or lookup some other coin, the wording is always different. Just an interesting speculation. ;)

You mean air drops?

It is a common practice that to receive free tokens / air drops you have to follow a few instructions - such as posting on your twitter or youtube video etc.

People are lazy and just copy and paste what others said etc.

There are tons of coins under 1m marketcap with a bull shit "white paper" and shitty contracts. Its all based around the euphoric belief that the team will actually pull through with their plans and you got in "under 1m marketcap". It may see gains when we're in a bull if the team is still around. Will they be the next Sol or Eth? No fucking chance. Its a meme coin meant for the price to pump based off false hype and get out while you can - which thousands of tokens fall under. Nothing special here.

You're a few years late to the flight on the #1 meme coin in crypto. Now you're desperate for another moon shot. Lithosphere definitely sounds like a runner-up to doge, considering we're comparing the 2.. lol.

And you also compared lithosphere to solana and ethereum. Can you make your mind up?

Not really hating dude. I barely know you lol. Nothing makes this sound or look like a "gem". If you really think your $500 investment is gonna 100x-500x+ with lithosphere before it goes to $0, I wish you the best. Its just gonna be another coin left in the dust in my opinion but good luck

Coming from someone who is quite educated on Ethereum news...

There are plenty of other alt coins that are doing a much better job and have a better chance of success at "Cross-chain" or "Cross chain defi" or whatever than this "Litho" token someone shilled you.

If I were you, I would take everyone's advice here and drop out of this coin. Find a different coin that is open and active about their development process. This is a sure-as-hell $0.00 coin sooner than later.

Regardless. I don't even bother investing into cross-chain type coins. Much less... one like this.

I know all about Ethereum too, I used PayPal funds to buy miners back when it was just a few dollars and no exchanges listed them. My whole basement was full of GPUs (from a $50k PayPal instant loan) As soon as I found Ethereum in those days I told everybody even the exchanges that said they wouldn't accept other crypto coins would accept Ethereum.

I use to trade Bitcoin back when I sold diablo3 gold among other gaming currencies/game items/accounts. - That is how I found Bitcoin in around 2011-2012

So I don't come with lack of experience.

People said the same shit about Ethereum to me when it came out.

Your opinion is just an opinion. (as mine is as well)?

Based on my experience, LITHO is going to moon when the chain goes live next year.

Okay. But can you enlighten us on why you think "LITHO to moon"?

Is this just a tingle in your buttohole or do you have some evidence as to why it may be a successful token?

The evidence is all on the site, the news articles, white paper, etc. Your opinion is clearly different than mine and every coin starts off like this, many many many many many doubters just spreading FUD/hate.

Very few coins in my lifetime gave me a tingle in my butt hole, but Bitcoin and Ethereum.

LITHO really tingles my butt. ?

Change the URL to something like lit or lookup some other coin, the wording is always different. Just an interesting speculation. ;)

<https://www.coinbase.com/how-to-buy/lithosphere>

vs

<https://www.coinbase.com/how-to-buy/lit>

VS

<https://www.coinbase.com/how-to-buy/dodo>

Just so everyone knows the OP is lying or just misinformed. The wording is not “always” different. Any different wording may be because of a different format used at the time when the article was created or because the coins he mentioned are actually available but only on the coinbase wallet as mentioned.

The format he mentioned seems to be the default format for every coin not listed with an exception of Dodo.

LMAO, No need to get so riled up when people don't agree with it going to the moon OP, there's just too many like it, too many "to the moon!!!!!!111" only for it to crash and burn spectacularly, who knows, maybe for some miracle it gets 100x like some random "promising" coins do and we'll get some profit, but really it looks like pure gamba right now.

I don't believe a single thing on what their white paper says, or what any article says, I just look at the market cap and hope it won't be LUNA Classic 2.0. And heck, if you're right, that's nice. I bet on this coin mainly because it has the words AI on it and that's pretty hype these days.

The reason the wording is different isn't because Coinbase is planning on adding any of these coins.

It's because all the coins you mentioned that are worded different are actually available on Coinbase but specifically only through Coinbase Wallet.

Everything else that is NOT available on Coinbase in any form (Coinbase Wallet) is worded just like Shitosphere. Anyone who believes that this coin is getting added on Coinbase is WRONG. There's no evidence that points towards that like you've claimed.
