Just messaged you about this and am hoping we can actually make a deal happen this time. Looking forward to hearing back from you, thanks.

EDIT

DO NOT DO A DEAL WITH THIS MEMBER UNLESS THEY GO FIRST OR YOU'RE USING A TRUSTED MIDDLEMAN.

He continues to ignore multiple of us when asked about him going first or even just using a middleman. He also has 2 legacy disputes on here which are both Runescape scamming related.

Great price considering the current market on OSRS.

Hey there,

I sent you a DM two days ago offering to buy your entire supply and willing to use a MM.

When I sent that DM you hopped online instantly, read it, then went offline.

Seems a little fishy if you ask me, deal with caution @all.

If you sent it via convos, that's a known glitch. You can message someone that's been offline for 5 years and it will immediately show them online. That's if you messaged via convo though.

Apologies in advance for the long reply, I wanted it to be thorough is all.

In terms of a situation where Machos didn't reply or in my case stopped replying upon trying to do a deal, I can relate. I talked with him around two months ago in detail about purchasing some gold, we both seemed on the same page about the deal, and then as soon as I asked if he'd be willing to go first (which based on my b-rating vs theirs I don't think is any bit unreasonable), he seemingly ghosted me. I followed up for the next couple of days and still got no reply, even when I said if he changed his mind about the deal than that's totally fine and to simply let me know so I could look elsewhere. Meanwhile however, he continued to post on his thread saying he was still selling. It definitely seemed strange to me and honestly also rubbed me the wrong way a bit.

Now I'm not usually one to jump the gun and assume the worst in a first time situation like that, but I can definitely see how it may come off as a red flag. So while I'm not going to just outright accuse this person of trying to scam, I am going to say to be smart and use a trusted middleman if he isn't willing to go first.

I also messaged him a little bit ago regarding this thread in attempt to once again try and make a deal happen, but haven't received a reply. We'll see if that changes in the coming days though since maybe he hasn't seen it yet. Hopefully there is nothing malicious going on and he gets back to me to provide an explanation regarding our previous experience as well as to actually do a deal this time around. I will provide an update to this post in a couple of days.

EDIT

So it's been over 2 days now since this post and my reaching out to him. Still no reply, but yet he's been online multiple times, has looked at my profile, and has looked at this thread. I've also since noticed that he has 2 legacy disputes on here which are both Runescape scamming related. I will link them below for those curious.

If you attempt to do a deal with him, do NOT go first. At the very least use a trusted middleman. He's ignored both myself and at least 1 other person (both of us posted about it in this thread so just scroll up to see) when him going first or even just using a middleman has been asked about. That's despite his thread stating he will use a middleman too so I guess that's just for show to help lure people in.

Also, he has 2 legacy disputes on this site, both Runescape related as well. One where he seems to have scammed someone by not giving them the gold after they paid for it and the other where he sold a service to get people a fire cape on their accounts, offered vouch copies (likely just to lure people in more quickly and easily), and then seems to have cleaned out someone's account once he had access to it. I will link both of those dispute threads below and that include even more info about the situations and Machos.
