as we see many sketchy things & rumors goin on with exchanges , which stable coin are you gonna hold ?

Dai , busd, usdC or what? in which wallet?

Cooldudex - November 13, 2022, 9:32 am

DAI or USDC are your best bets in my opinion

shreder - November 13, 2022, 11:41 am

DAI over everything else.

I use USDC but also BUSD, the way I look at it is if Binance goes then Crypto is over for a very long time, all other crypto would be near worthless. Binance has near 50% of the entire volume out off all the exchanges

DAI/BUSD/USDC

I hold within these stables

I kept my virtual funds in BUSD for a long time and I admit that this stable coin has not turned out to be a bad choice in the long run.

As you can see from recent FTX event you should not have BUSD. If you think Binance is invincible you are next for the eventually chopping block.

All that matters is proof of reserves. If the stable has a verifiable proof of reserves, you're fine.

DAI > USDC/BUSD > USDT

DAI and USDC are the same. Only major difference is that DAI has decentralized governance and partial crypto collateralized reserves.

Most reputable stablecoin issuers with collateralized reserves have an attestation monthly report released by an independent public accounting firm.

I only rank DAI above the other two because there isn't a dude sitting there who can just freeze funds as they feel fit. As you said, decentralized governance.

BUSD and USDC I treat equally due to, again, as you said, reliable monthly reports.

I've seen a lot of FUD around USDT but for my Brokie ass, USDT or GBP stable coins is what I hold!

isu - November 14, 2022, 8:18 am

DAI is the most decentralised. USDT and USDC can be blacklisted at any time.

Upvote anything decentralized..... and long term, gold as your own physical reserve.
