As far as the growth options listed above, yes. However it is possible to do without at a higher price point not included in this list above if desired - though we would recommend taking advantage of all that our team has to offer! We provide hands off social media management services, rather than posting being left entirely up to clients convience to manage. You can just sit back and watch your account grow and post without having to lift a finger. We will handle the page branding to really capitalize on your increased traffic.

Any chance you will do Twitter in the future? I have a few SaaS projects out soon. Instagram isn't too great for businesses unless you're buying ads directly from Instagram.

Can you give more insights on how that will be done ?

I have few long term clients with me. I can suggest them after fully understanding the modus operandi.
