

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Are ICOs a gamble?

Apricus - November 29, 2022, 9:25 am

I'm pretty new in terms of researching crypto and I was wondering, are ICOs a complete gamble? If not what are some promising ones that you guys have seen?

Cheers

shreder - November 29, 2022, 10:09 am

ICOs are hardly a thing now a days.

Even IEOs are like so 2020.

Apricus - November 29, 2022, 10:25 am

(Nov 29, 2022 11:09 AM)shreder Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ICOs are hardly a thing now a days.

Even IEOs are like so 2020.

So then how are new tokens getting initial value?

shreder - November 29, 2022, 10:57 am

(Nov 29, 2022 11:25 AM)Apricus Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So then how are new tokens getting initial value?
Air drops fair launches.

Look at ENS, UNISWAP, 1INCH, Gitcoin and more.

I'm not saying ICOs don't exists, they are not mainstream.

Omniscient - November 29, 2022, 12:28 pm

ICO's were a 2018 type of thing. New minting of NFT's seem to be the latest trend for quick buck if you can pick the right project. However that's dying down with the rest of the market.

If you're new I got one solid suggestion for you.

Buy Bitcoin, hold, and STFU.

RsGoldKing - November 29, 2022, 9:33 pm

(Nov 29, 2022 01:28 PM)Admin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Buy Bitcoin, hold, and STFU.
little rough on the landing but agreed

Yin Yang - November 30, 2022, 6:12 am

Here's a nice breakdown of the different offerings: link

StuffSneak - November 30, 2022, 10:16 am

There are still ICOs? I remember investing in 1 of them in 2018 maybe.