

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Sad day today

Alpachino - December 2, 2022, 1:50 pm

So my grandma has been living alone for 23 years since my grand dad died. yesterday her dog died that was basically here everything so today i went to here and she was crying and stuff that shit really really hurt me, but we planning to get her a new pup tomorrow so she can have a new buddy, was really weird to see her cry the last time was when my grandad died, weird day today

Immortal - December 2, 2022, 1:52 pm

Sorry bud, I know how it can be to lose a loved one and especially a family pet. It's hard I hope she's okay and you should really spend all the time you can with her cause it means so much to her and one day you won't be able to. Family first man.

Alpachino - December 2, 2022, 1:53 pm

(Dec 2, 2022 02:52 PM)Immortal Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Sorry bud, I know how it can be to lose a loved one and especially a family pet. It's hard I hope she's okay and you should really spend all the time you can with her cause it means so much to her and one day you won't be able to. Family first man.

Absolutely bro, everyday atleast some of us come to here and we will keep doing bro sometimes we miss a day cuz not possible but she not alone but dang that shit was really sad

Artisan - December 2, 2022, 1:54 pm

Deaths are specially hard to handle for elderly people. Im glad she has family members who care for her.

A new pup will definitely cheer her up but I think that she'll love family members checking up on her every now and then more.

Alpachino - December 2, 2022, 1:55 pm

(Dec 2, 2022 02:54 PM)Artisan Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Deaths are specially hard to handle for elderly people. Im glad she has family members who care for her.

A new pup will definitely cheer her up but I think that she'll love family members checking up on her every now and then more.

Yeah we keep doing that bro we love here she loves us we hugged and i gave her kisses hope shell find a matching pup tomorrow

limb3r - December 2, 2022, 3:33 pm

A new puppy will just be more work for her and she won't share the same bond.

I'd say let her grieve the way she wants and have the memories.

interbellum - December 2, 2022, 3:39 pm

I'm sorry. That absolutely sucks man. Just support her a lot since it's probably really tough for her at the moment.

Hero - December 2, 2022, 4:11 pm

I never really thought that the death itself doesn't hurt me, but rather the part of where i miss my dog.

She was always happy when i came home from school/work and she always checked on me before she went to sleep. Whenever my door was closed, she scratched my door or whined telling me to open it. Then when she knew i was alright, she always left and went to sleep.

Good pup, we truly don't deserve dogs.

AxelB - December 2, 2022, 6:20 pm

Damn man

I really hope you can feel better soon. I know what you're going through so if you ever want to talk to anyone im here.

Nate - December 2, 2022, 6:23 pm

That sucks dude, hope you try to think of positive and happy memories of her during this time. Think of the person she used to be, anyways hope you get through this okay.

kankakanka - December 2, 2022, 7:55 pm

I am 25 years old and I live alone. My girlfriend left me a year and a half ago and I can't get over it

SpiritualDose - December 2, 2022, 9:59 pm

(Dec 2, 2022 02:50 PM)Alpaca420 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) So my grandmom has been living alone for 23years sinde my grand dad died. yesterday her dog died that was basicly here everything so today i went to here and she was crying and stuff that shit really really hurted me, but we planning to get her a new pup tomorrow so she can have a new buddy, was really weird to see her cry the last time was when my grandad died, weird day today

Ah man I'm so sorry to hear that. One thing I despise about life is our inevitable death but I have to remember to live happily one day at a time.

One thing you can say to her to give her some loving words of encouragement is that no matter what, she gave that dog the best damn life it could've ever asked for. The best owner It could've asked for and no matter what he's in dog heaven telling the other dogs how good and loving she was.

Keep your head up brother. Stay blessed , it's all love!

Yo Pierre - December 3, 2022, 4:37 am man thats really sad to hear. give her some hugs from us

Alpachino - December 3, 2022, 5:54 am

Good news guys she got a new pup

bevc - December 3, 2022, 6:00 am

(Dec 3, 2022 06:54 AM)Alpaca420 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Good news guys she got a new pup
How does she seem?

This is really tough, I don't see the death of a beloved animal as any different than the loss of a human family member. Sending all love and good wishes to your grandma, truly. I hope you are spending lots of time with her.

hamradiator - December 3, 2022, 6:59 am

I know how she feels, she probably thinked about her husband at that time and also she didnt want to lose anyone anymore. You should really visit her often and maybe go on a little walk with her or something. Buying her a new puppy probably helps but she will still be sad for a few months. You should also call her time to time and spend time with her. She lives alone so her dog was the only one she woke up to everyday. Good luck.