Thread: Worker or Hustler?

Serial - December 15, 2022, 4:51 pm

Myself

I personally don't work a 9 to 5 and hate to do so. I do my best taking every opportunity that presents itself to me.

You?

Do you work a 9 to 5 or do you hustle to get by?

theDuke - December 15, 2022, 4:52 pm

Why not play the system and do both? Been doing both for years ?

I wanted to add that option too but ofcourse there are many variations. I myself am ok with "work", just not a 9 to 5. I do what's needed to pay expences, while working my way up to (semi)passive income.

?nxy - December 15, 2022, 5:03 pm

Hustler? Like the dudes trying to sell you sunglasses on the streets of NYC?

Someone who hustles doesn't necessarily sell sunglasses, nor is one bound to operate within the City of New York. We all have to eat and I do what's needed to do so.

Either find a way or make one.

Man responded seriously to Viper lmao.

Melodies - December 15, 2022, 5:42 pm

I don't think I will ever be able to live on a schedule so getting a "normal" job sounds impossible, but I'm still waiting to see what I will end up doing, hopefully soon enough :D

mizap - December 15, 2022, 7:07 pm

I work a 9 to 5 but I like the "work to live vs live to work" idea

.RTCX - December 16, 2022, 4:18 am

Do both, that way you can have a good career with stable income and make some good ££££ from the side hustle

I like your mentality, been doing the same here.

Yin Yang - December 16, 2022, 4:49 am

I'm a modern day slave to the corporate industry

iiFinance - December 16, 2022, 5:04 am

I do both. I work for a finance corporation and do some side jobs while I'm not there at the gym or with my girl.

Personally, I work in completely different hours, practically 6-7 days a week, but it is not a problem for me. My job just doesn't bother me and I enjoy doing it?

ogRizah - December 16, 2022, 9:25 am

Hustle is the only way I know how.

AbnormalOne - December 16, 2022, 10:58 am

I think you have to do some sort of grind (working for others) as a safety net and to save cash to practice and develop your hustle. But the goal is always to live by the hustle eventually.

Seaking - December 16, 2022, 11:20 am

I do the whole 8-4:30 deal. I like having a steady income while looking at more opportunities to make money. Hell I stream on twitch and made enough doing that in the evenings I paid for my last computer and monitors.

alepolo101 - December 16, 2022, 7:21 pm

Have to work but always wanna hustle

Bluffer - December 18, 2022, 9:12 pm

I really enjoy having a routine. Was a bit of a hustler until the beginning of this year. Worked a great, physically demanding job most of the year then moved to a new place around a month ago and last week found a new job that is a desk job.

Life will be okay.

StuffSneak - December 18, 2022, 11:17 pm

Small Business owner & online hustler as well.

canNweed - December 19, 2022, 5:12 am

hustle $$ 666 till day i die babieeee

SIM-4932765 - December 19, 2022, 6:38 am

Online hustling is the day ma man!

Komodo - December 19, 2022, 7:47 am

Somewhere in the middle I suppose.

Nostre - December 19, 2022, 8:11 am

I believe a hustler's mindset is a lot better than having a 9-5 mindset. A hustler is more independent IMO, which is a very important attribute.

SMMFlare - December 19, 2022, 8:19 am

Doing both, working for main income until the hustle takes off!

DashPHP - December 19, 2022, 9:40 am

Hustling is my way also... spending every second awake on the dream.

milked - December 19, 2022, 10:02 am

I'm a hustler, I could never join the corporate bridge and work a 9-5. I do well and will continue to do well.

Cunt - December 19, 2022, 2:04 pm

I like to work and climb the corporate ladder. Small side hustles don't hurt either :)

Vibe - December 19, 2022, 2:08 pm

I work a regular job for my bills & a retirement fund and essentials but gotta hustle for most of my wants in life.

But mondays got me thinking quitting and becoming a drug dealer isn't off the table yet

I believe everyone should use their job to fund a personal project that generates an income. No one should ever be stuck doing something they have no interest in.

If you enjoy your job, I praise you for finding something worth it for you.

jcole - December 19, 2022, 2:40 pm

I would consider myself a worker as I get older, but you can definitely entertain my ears with a good hustle and I might just jump on it. As I get older though I just feel more like a worker than a hustler, but see the pros and cons of both. As long as it's a legal hustle I might be interested in it.

Eran - December 19, 2022, 11:43 pm

I'm currently hustling. I do not want to be stuck in a 9-5 job. To be honest, I'm living even a more poor lifestyle than when I was having a 9-5 job, but it's all part of the plan.

Artisan - December 20, 2022, 1:39 am

I consider myself a worker. My 9-5 is very intensive and only 9-5 in name. I also have side hustles which also take a lot of time to do.

Charlie Sheen - December 20, 2022, 1:49 am

I try my best to hustle, I hope something kicks off and I can continue to hustle instead of going back to a basic job.

$neaky - December 20, 2022, 3:50 am hustler, but i can see having a reliable 9 to 5 being comforting. but also tedious and tiring for some diablospartan - December 23, 2022, 6:53 am

Well i have a 9 to 5 job because i dont succed yet but soon i will work full time in im .
My dream its to be free amd work when i want and how much i want

Bastille - December 23, 2022, 7:07 am

I'm a worker, I'm not interested about being a hustler, I earn enough for the time being, no need for the moment

Jinu - December 23, 2022, 7:39 am

I am a worker. Since I don't have many skills, hustling is not possible in my case. But I always wish to do any side hustle to support my income.

SpiritualDose - December 23, 2022, 8:43 am

Very much a hustler.

I got sober in January and started my own business in March, since then I've been doing really well and it's been such a great journey working for myself.

Prettykitty - December 23, 2022, 8:57 am

It changes a lot, I'd work if it was more reasonable pay relative to the cost of living here. I'd been needing to "hustle" to make do with the current evolving situations.

pms - December 23, 2022, 9:06 am

I honestly enjoy the rat race a lot. My hustle would be my art and music.

testacc712 - December 24, 2022, 10:52 am

Born and bred hussler, my whole life is work mostly. it gets tiring but is what it is

MightyOne - December 24, 2022, 12:39 pm

I do both, I worked for years as a 10-5 job in hightech companies, and hustled on evening on different jobs.

The best is combining both of your worlds in my opinion :)

Zeus - December 24, 2022, 3:37 pm

I do both ngl its the best way to live.

Currently a hustler but looking to combine them both.
