I'm seeing the film on the 17th but figured I'd get a thread going for us to all give our thoughts on the film.

Avatar 1 was one of the only films where I wanted to know what happens after the end credits, so I'm pretty excited to see this.

Same here I really wanna see the continuation of the story for this movie. I have heard several reviews but don't wanna spoil it out and would wanna see it with my own eyes.

When I pulled up to the cinema, all the 4d / 3d times were completely full.
So I had to resort to 2d. The only seats were front seats available.
It was shit. My neck was so stiff, my back and shoulders hurting Imfao.
Gonna re-watch it in 4d soon.

Oh and I was high as fuck. I can't remember most of the movie.

I thought the movie was OK - certainly some parts that I thought didn't look right. There were no parts that massively wow'd me - the hunting for the chemical that stopped human aging seemed dumb, you'd like they could just make that chemical compound once they know what it is.
