Best of luck with your streaming journey. It's definitely not easy and is also a hell of a grind if you really want to turn it into something, but as long as it's something you're passionate about and thoroughly enjoy than those things don't matter quite as much.

Like everyone else said good luck! I went ahead and dropped a follow on the channel. If I see you streaming I'll try to pop-in.

This might sound harsh, but I agree 100%
The best way to climb as a beginning streamer is to bring something to the table.
Either you're already an influencer or you just are fucking good at the game.

Starting to stream on Kick myself. 47 days going strong! Super excited to continue. I stream slots on Stake and definitely enjoy using their platform!

That's absolutely pointless for Twitch as you want active viewers and people who engage in your stream chat.
