Used CapCut on Windows for this, not a bad experience tbh. I have strep atm and couldn't talk for this, so used a text to speech and it turned out pretty decent I think. Haven't done video editing in years so I apologize if I am a bit rusty. Might be posting other videos detailing the various games and features HF has to offer just for practice, promoting the site and potentially assisting newer members. What do you guys think about a potential video series to help new members out? Good luck to everyone in the YT contest, and hoping this brings more exposure to HF.

Hey, good job overall. Everything was blurry up until you clicked on Tech. Maybe this is just a me thing? The AI Voice was actually pretty good. Had your typical YouTube sound to it. Not a bad go for being out of editing for a while. Extra points because I say my user name in the video! ;)

Edit: NVM the blurry comment. It's a fullscreen thing. Happens on all of them for me on FireFox.

Capcut is awesome, gonna mess with it a bit more and see how it is. Yeah a short video series may not be a bad idea!
