Singing in the shower

I would like a logical, scientific explanation for why we sing in the bathroom. We do not perform religious rituals there

I feel like its just if ya vibing out you finally feel the peace and security of your own privacy, thus not holding back. maybe?

When im smoking and chillin with the homies ill rap along and shit but I can see if the bathroom is the only place most people feel comfortable sounding awful

Honestly, I don't know anyone (myself included) who sings under the shower. Is that something so normal? ?

Not a scientific, but my guess will be that it's a place where we're alone and it's often a "safe space" for us.

Also the acoustics is nice.

The wider the bathroom, the more echoing the sound

Natural, especially with hot water, it seems. you are. You've been doing abnormal things lately

I sing in the shower all the time. I like getting obnoxious with a lot of vibrato in the shower though with all the reverb pretending I'm an opera singer.
