

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Are you scared of flying?

iiFinance - February 6, 2023, 6:28 am

Title says it all.

I got a flight in about 1.5 weeks, nothing long just a domestic flight to Orlando from Cleveland. I've flown before, long flights too 6+ hours. I've been across sea's to Europe and to LA from North Carolina.

Personally, I've always been interested in aviation and have an interest in planes since a young age. Personally, flying isn't really comfortable considering you're in a metal tube 30,000 feet up in the air but I'm never really nervous/scared. Turbulence doesn't even bother me. When I'm in the plane and it starts to move and go up, at that point I kind of accept that here I am and can't do anything about it now so what's the point of being scared lol.

POLLUX - February 6, 2023, 6:39 am

Before my first flight I was not afraid, but it was a weird feeling, now I fly 12 hour flights every 3-4 months and it's completely normal

iiFinance - February 6, 2023, 6:51 am

(Feb 6, 2023 07:39 AM)MRKTRK Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Before my first flight I was not afraid, but it was a weird feeling, now I fly 12 hour flights every 3-4 months and it's completely normal
Where are you flying too? That's quite a long flight.

POLLUX - February 6, 2023, 7:09 am

(Feb 6, 2023 07:51 AM)iiFinance Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Where are you flying too? That's quite a long flight.
We are on Hackforums buddy, I prefer to keep things like that for me :D

iiFinance - February 6, 2023, 7:11 am

(Feb 6, 2023 08:09 AM)MRKTRK Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) We are on Hackforums buddy, I prefer to keep things like that for me :D
....this site is full of skids. No one is out to get you nor would they have any idea who you are considering there is millions of flights a year. But whatever.

Seaking - February 6, 2023, 7:30 am

It doesn't scare me. If the metal tube in the sky decides to face-plant into the earth i'm dead. Best to relax and not think about it.

Grey Goose - February 6, 2023, 9:14 am

Not anymore.

I used to be afraid of flying.. Or rather of dying.

But I've been working a lot with my self and my anxiety, so now I actual enjoy it.

Lrrr - February 6, 2023, 9:53 am

I fly at-least once a month if not more, flying is only scary when there is serious turbulence

?Alexander - February 6, 2023, 10:30 am ye, i have to take a couple of benzos before i get on a plane because otherwise i get a panic attack flying is not cool yo

Deany - February 6, 2023, 12:12 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:28 AM)iiFinance Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Title says it all.

I got a flight in about 1.5 weeks, nothing long just a domestic flight to Orlando from Cleveland. I've flown before, long flights too 6+ hours. I've been across sea's to Europe and to LA from North Carolina.

Personally, I've always been interested in aviation and have an interest in planes since a young age. Personally, flying isn't really comfortable considering you're in a metal tube 30,000 feet up in the air but I'm never really nervous/scared. Turbulence doesn't even bother me. When I'm in the plane and it starts to move and go up, at that point I kind of accept that here I am and can't do anything about it now so what's the point of being scared lol.

No, flying is fine. How else will I travel to bumfuck nowhere to get my limited edition weaboo merch?
?

Ravachol - February 6, 2023, 1:16 pm

Statistically more likely to die in a car accident than on an airplane

Itachi Uchiha - February 6, 2023, 1:45 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 02:16 PM)Ravachol Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Statistically more likely to die in a car accident than on an airplane

This, the most dangerous part of flying is getting to and from the airport.

I flew 5-6 times in 2022, awful experience don't recommend(flying that much not the flight). If your plan has first class it makes the ride better(unlimited drinks).

Ultras - February 6, 2023, 2:45 pm

Of course I am, just think about all the things outside your control that can abruptly end your life. And worse yet, the last thing you'll experience if things go wrong is hundreds of screaming idiots. I don't care about stats, in my own car I can do quite a bit to avoid reckless drivers. I fly a lot regardless, but I avoid certain planes, airlines and routes

Raesyne - February 6, 2023, 4:51 pm

I enjoy flying, it's very surreal, little scary if you think about it too deep but I don't hear much of planes having issues.

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 5:18 pm

No, but I think most of society is paranoid about flying that's why there's so much unnecessary security at airports. They treat you like pothead convicts, it just goes to show how non-Christian society has lost its freedom.

Gary Clark Jr. - February 6, 2023, 6:10 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 06:18 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No, but I think most of society is paranoid about flying that's why there's so much unnecessary security at airports. They treat you like pothead convicts, it just goes to show how non-Christian society has lost its freedom.

Do you ever eat a ton of edibles before getting on a plane?

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:15 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:10 PM)Gary Clark Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you ever eat a ton of edibles before getting on a plane?

No. Did you learn to be funny in Germany?

Gary Clark Jr. - February 6, 2023, 6:16 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:15 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) No. Did you learn to be funny in Germany?
Yeah I learned from the one and only Cuthbert.

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:19 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:16 PM)Gary Clark Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah I learned from the one and only Cuthbert.
You always learn whenever I'm around, dopehead.

Gary Clark Jr. - February 6, 2023, 6:23 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:19 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) You always learn whenever I'm around, dopehead.
It's usually gibberish about some dude name Jesus that hates medicine or some hippie shit.

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:24 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:23 PM)Gary Clark Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's usually gibberish about some dude name
Jesus that hates medicine or some hippie shit.
If you believe marijuana is medicine you'll believe anything.

Gary Clark Jr. - February 6, 2023, 6:27 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:24 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) If you believe marijuana is medicine you'll believe anything.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Medical_cannabis_research

You should do some research into medical marijuana.

testy boi - February 6, 2023, 6:27 pm

no not really I mean annoying to be stuck in plane but

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:28 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:27 PM)Gary Clark Jr. Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Medical_cannabis_research

You should do some research into medical marijuana.
I have and I've concluded it's not a medicine, it's poison.

theDuke - February 6, 2023, 6:33 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:28 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I have and I've concluded it's not a medicine, it's poison.
I swear every thread I see you in, you somehow bring up marijuana ? Completely unrelated to this thread.

You've concluded it's a poison? Let's see your lab tests and extensive studies. Also what does this have to do with Christianity? I'm a devout Christian and medical MJ user. It has helped me more than what big pharma has to offer.

To answer OPs question; no, I'm not scared to fly.

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:50 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:33 PM)theDuke Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I swear every thread I see you in, you somehow bring up marijuana ? Completely unrelated to this thread.

You've concluded it's a poison? Let's see your lab tests and extensive studies. Also what does this have to do with Christianity? I'm a devout Christian and medical MJ user. It has helped me more than what big pharma has to offer.

To answer OPs question; no, I'm not scared to fly.
I didn't bring it up first, but since you asked.

"The evidence GRADE was very low. Pharmaceutical THC (with or without CBD) worsened negative symptoms of psychosis in a single study (SMD 0.36 [95% CI 0.10 to 0.62]; n=24). Pharmaceutical THC (with or without CBD) did not significantly affect any other primary outcomes for the mental disorders examined but did increase the number of people who had adverse events (OR 1.99 [95% CI 1.20 to 3.29]; ten studies; n=1495) and withdrawals due to adverse events (2.78 [1.59 to 4.86]; 11 studies; n=1621) compared with placebo across all mental disorders examined."

"There is scarce evidence to suggest that cannabinoids improve depressive disorders and symptoms, anxiety disorders, attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder, Tourette syndrome, post-traumatic stress disorder, or psychosis. There is very low quality evidence that pharmaceutical THC (with or without CBD) leads to a small improvement in symptoms of anxiety among individuals with other medical conditions. There remains insufficient evidence to provide guidance on the use of cannabinoids for treating mental disorders within a regulatory framework. Further high-quality studies directly examining the effect of cannabinoids on treating mental disorders are needed."

https://www.thelancet.com/journals/lanpsy/article/PIIS2215-0366\(19\)30401-8/fulltext30401-8/fulltext)

"Daily cannabis use was associated with increased odds of psychotic disorder compared with never users."

https://www.thelancet.com/article/S2215-0366\(19\)30048-3/fulltext30048-3/fulltext)

Intoxication is a sin. You've been tricked by Big Dope.

Secrets - February 6, 2023, 6:54 pm

Flying from USA to the Middle East, to Afghanistan...to Germany...Ireland etc...I would say no. However, jumping out of one is completely different!

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 6:57 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:54 PM)Secrets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Flying from USA to the Middle East, to Afghanistan...to Germany...Ireland etc...I would say no. However, jumping out of one is completely different!

Would you fly often still if airports had no security?

Secrets - February 6, 2023, 7:00 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:57 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Would you fly often still if airports had no security?
For sure. One would have to be aware of where you're traveling to and then take precautions.
Always know the possibility of what could happen or the situation you could find yourself in.
Mitigating those risks and then acknowledging them.

Streets ain't never safe ?

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 7:05 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 08:00 PM)Secrets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) For sure. One would have to be aware of where you're traveling to and then take precautions.

Always know the possibility of what could happen or the situation you could find yourself in.
Mitigating those risks and then acknowledging them.

Streets ain't never safe ?

Some risks simply aren't worth taking. I wasn't so much referring to the dangers on the streets rather, the dangers on the plane.

Secrets - February 6, 2023, 7:08 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 08:05 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Some risks simply aren't worth taking. I wasn't so much referring to the dangers on the streets rather, the dangers on the plane.

I got what you meant but not in a literal sense of the streets. You're right though, boarding a plane or even a car implies risks. You never know what variables are at play. When we landed into Kandahar Airport, it definitely was a different experience. Even the plane ride there was something. Once we reached a certain altitude we were getting bombarded and shot at. That could be the same sense as in someone hijacking a plane though. Death is everywhere ?

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 7:15 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 08:08 PM)Secrets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I got what you meant but not in a literal sense of the streets. You're right though, boarding a plane or even a car implies risks. You never know what variables are at play. When we landed into Kandahar Airport, it definitely was a different experience. Even the plane ride there was something. Once we reached a certain altitude we were getting bombarded and shot at. That could be the same sense as in someone hijacking a plane though. Death is everywhere ?

Do you, therefore, believe airport security is necessary and what limits would you put upon it, if any?

Secrets - February 6, 2023, 7:24 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 08:15 PM)Cuthbert Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Do you, therefore, believe airport security is necessary and what limits would you put upon it, if any?

Security I think is a false sense of hope to people thinking nothing can go wrong, so they should always be weary.

I do believe in security, and it plays a role in mitigating and minimizing threats.

It should start at the hiring process and guidelines of security practice.

Just like a security feature on your internet settings, they can be restrictive or loose.

Cuthbert - February 6, 2023, 7:34 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 08:24 PM)Secrets Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Security I think is a false sense of hope to people thinking nothing can go wrong, so they should always be weary.

I do believe in security, and it plays a role in mitigating and minimizing threats.

It should start at the hiring process and guidelines of security practice.

Just like a security feature on your internet settings, they can be restrictive or loose.

Reasonable enough. I think security reflects the level of trust people have for one another in society. The less trust the more security. The sheer level of security today implies mass paranoia.

Roberto Scorpious Malfoy - February 6, 2023, 7:43 pm

(Feb 6, 2023 07:28 AM)iiFinance Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Title says it all.

I got a flight in about 1.5 weeks, nothing long just a domestic flight to Orlando from Cleveland. I've flown before, long flights too 6+ hours. I've been across sea's to Europe and to LA from North Carolina.

Personally, I've always been interested in aviation and have an interest in planes since a young age. Personally, flying isn't really comfortable considering you're in a metal tube 30,000 feet up in the air but I'm never really nervous/scared. Turbulence doesn't even bother me. When I'm in the plane and it starts to move and go up, at that point I kind of accept that here I am and can't do anything about it now so what's the point of being scared lol.

Got the same story as you, and I think exactly like you, once the shit is up there's no point in getting scared if something happens it happens.

I think if I became a pilot and I had control over everything I wouldn't be scared.

Baby - February 7, 2023, 3:52 am

I think we're all scared of that possibility for a final destination like ending...but at the end of the day I've flown a few times & can say it becomes comfortable, not that every ride is easy. Turbulence, etc.

DashPHP - February 7, 2023, 5:04 am

You'll be fine brother! It really won't be that bad.

Exempt - February 7, 2023, 5:06 am

Unless the weather seems sketchy or there's bad turbulence I actually enjoy flying if it's shorter trips fbdjipjiou - February 7, 2023, 5:55 am

No, I love flying I think everyone should try it at some point darkomako - February 7, 2023, 7:49 am

Nope you're more likely to die in a car accident than on an plane lol;)

SaFEX - February 7, 2023, 4:09 pm

I have never flown yet, but I will definitely take a parachute with me the first time

Grim - February 7, 2023, 4:17 pm

im not very fond of heights but surprisingly not scared at all of flights. Maybe because i take so many for work gotten used to it.

webatoz - February 7, 2023, 5:45 pm

i never seat in a flight so i cant say

SIM-1169085 - February 7, 2023, 6:01 pm

No I'm not scared of flying. I fly quite a bit because of work and I've gotten used to it.

You have to understand you're more likely to be involved in a car accident than in a flight accident.

Yanix - February 7, 2023, 7:11 pm

I am not scared of flying ever since, just got bothered whenever a strong turbulence coming our way but totally it's always been fun flying.

blackrose_x0x0 - February 7, 2023, 7:50 pm

I'm going for my A license in skydiving this year so no... not afraid of flying, I love it. Although I about shit myself every time that airplane door opens up before a jump and I do get a bit of nerves sometimes when there is some serious turbulence going on.

jcole - February 7, 2023, 7:55 pm

I've never been in an airplane honestly, but I think I would be OK. I'm not scared of heights, and if I was I just wouldn't look out the windows.

DemonAsylum - February 8, 2023, 12:11 am

Not a big fan of heights and I was scared of the idea of flying for a long time when I was a kid, but not so much anymore after having flown a good amount of times. I wont lie, it still makes me uneasy sometimes nowadays, but it's not crippling or anything.