Thread: [Virtual Assistants for random tasks \[\$50-75/day\]](#)

Neal Caffrey - February 19, 2023, 5:11 pm

I am looking to build a contact list of people who are interested in doing random jobs for money (nothing illegal).

Key requirements:

- Understand how to operate a VPN (and own one themselves).
- Understand how Discord and Twitter work (how to join a server, how to tweet/retweet).
- Willing to perform highly repetitive tasks.

This is NOT stable work (it comes in waves), and the purpose of this thread is to build a list I can broadcast jobs out to. You will not be working with a third-party and all the work will be done for me. The rate will depend on the work, however a ballpark range is $50-75/day with a view to increase it to more if the work is done well.

If you're interested, drop a message here and then shoot me an instant or private message with your timezone and hours that you can operate in. Anything outside of this shows an inability to read and tells me you would not be suitable for this.

I've worked with Pinas before and he's very professional and a hard worker. He could really use the money, and I know he's very capable.

I recommend you to search on sites like Upwork, you will find an Indian there to complete your tasks for much cheaper.

Thanks for the suggestion, but I've tried Upwork and Fiverr and they constantly try to scam me by entering their own details instead of the ones I give them. Plus I need a basic level of computer literacy as it involves using a VPN and incognito browsers etc.
