I recently bought a piece of art from a local gallery and I'm so happy with it! Its great having something unique and special in my home. Does anyone else enjoy collecting art?

I collect rare gundams, it's basically art. Am I right? neightworks.

Have a few paintings, nothing crazy.

Never got into the concept of collecting art myself.

Would you mind showing us a picture of this piece of art you've got from a local gallery?

Used to have a piece in my old room I would look at all the time. Good reminder that I need art in my new room.

Got a few of my own pieces up on my walls and one signed Stan Lee piece, it's huge but worth it for the investment. Want to get more when we get a bigger house in the future.

I'm extremely wealthy, perhaps I will buy the Mona Lisa one day. I do like art, but I've never owned any. I don't really like the idea of NFT's. But if I hacked one I'm sure my perspective would change. Art is cool!

I have some pieces by Rich Simmons hanging in my place. Not really an art collector, but I enjoy the work that he does behind the scenes (Charity stuff) with the funds from his art.

I'm actually a large fan of art, especially paintings. The older the better. I also like brand new modern paintings as well though, all depends on what the piece itself says to me.

My home will one day be filled with different kinds of art though, that's a definite.

I only collect festival wristbands. Gotta catch em all before I'm old and soggy.

Not into arts myself but I'm sure it's a lovely purchase!

My wife and I collect special pieces that speak to her, I'd love to get my hands on a Banksy.

I like to collect art in form of songs, not really fond of paintings
