

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: WordPress translate bug?

Brazzino - April 3, 2023, 10:17 pm

I'm translating the DOKAN plugin, from wordpress

there are some translations that are not working, has anyone experienced this?

inside Loco Translator itself, I do the translations, some appear and others don't, has anyone gone through this? solutions?

sherxan-com - April 18, 2023, 9:28 am

1.Clear cache: Clear the cache of your website and browser and try again. Sometimes, cached data can cause issues with translations.

2.Check the translation file: Make sure that the translations you have added are saved in the correct translation file. In some cases, the plugin may use multiple translation files, and the translations you added may not be in the file that the plugin is using.

3.Check the plugin version: Ensure that you are using the latest version of the DOKAN plugin. If you are using an outdated version, it may have bugs or issues that are causing problems with the translations.

4.Verify file permissions: Verify that the file permissions for the translation files are set correctly. Sometimes, incorrect file permissions can cause issues with translations.

Brazzino - April 18, 2023, 10:29 am

(Apr 18, 2023 09:28 AM)sherxan-com Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 1.Clear cache: Clear the cache of your website and browser and try again. Sometimes, cached data can cause issues with translations.

2.Check the translation file: Make sure that the translations you have added are saved in the correct translation file. In some cases, the plugin may use multiple translation files, and the translations you added may not be in the file that the plugin is using.

3.Check the plugin version: Ensure that you are using the latest version of the DOKAN plugin. If you are using an outdated version, it may have bugs or issues that are causing problems with the translations.

4.Verify file permissions: Verify that the file permissions for the translation files are set correctly. Sometimes, incorrect file permissions can cause issues with translations.

Thanks, but this information is very basic..

this is related to a bug with hostinger! :)

Perlo - April 20, 2023, 2:10 am

(Apr 18, 2023 09:28 AM)sherxan-com Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) 1.Clear cache: Clear the cache of your website and browser and try again. Sometimes, cached data can cause issues with translations.

2.Check the translation file: Make sure that the translations you have added are saved in the correct translation file. In some cases, the plugin may use multiple translation files, and the translations you added may not be in the file that the plugin is using.

3.Check the plugin version: Ensure that you are using the latest version of the DOKAN plugin. If you are using an outdated version, it may have bugs or issues that are causing problems with the translations.

4.Verify file permissions: Verify that the file permissions for the translation files are set correctly. Sometimes, incorrect file permissions can cause issues with translations.

(Apr 18, 2023 10:29 AM)Brazzino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Thanks, but this information is very basic..

this is related to a bug with hostinger! :)
My man is just copy pasting chat gpt outputs.

Sorry to hear that you have not resolved your issue yet. I have had the same problem with DOKAN before and have not yet been able to fix it. If you do find a solution, please be so kind to share it with me :)

Brazzino - April 20, 2023, 9:49 am

(Apr 20, 2023 02:10 AM)Perlo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My man is just copy pasting chat gpt outputs.

Sorry to hear that you have not resolved your issue yet. I have had the same problem with DOKAN before and have not yet been able to fix it. If you do find a solution, please be so kind to share it with me :)

im edit in the root :)

/wp-content/plugins/dokan-lite/templates/dashboard/dashboard.php

dokan_show_profile_progressbar

u can find any in templates or in ../dokan-pro/..