There is a Bytes buy-in after getting accepted as an individual depending on your skill-set (No specific section).

Will shoot you a convo once arranging the old members if you wish.

I will never have enough bytes for this.

I used to be a uber with 9k posts.

Now I just want to be a part of a great group and chill and learn new stuff.

And ofcourse also create stuff and do fun group stuff.

I might get have some interesting stuff coming up.

I said "stuff" a lot of times.

So how many Red Lions reboot do we have until now? I am surprised that the group hasn't been copyrighted till now by the staff. No disrespect to the OP but the OG Red Lions stood for something and the reboots are just not cutting it for me. Nothing will ever live upto those expectations, even though nokia turned out to be a complete POS.

I dont know how many reboots till now. Its a crew nowadays and not a group even tho.
I admired it back at 2013-2015 which was my era and thats why i bought it.

Even though , i might consider a total remake

I think Lrrr used to own a Red Lions crew a year ago or two. Is this the same crew?

Has been discussed again. A lot of userbars where copyrighted again and again.
I, Personally, don't think anyone who is absent from the community needs to "License" Something.

Yes it is

InspectorGadget - April 25, 2023, 12:27 am

The Red Lion userbar used to mean something. One of the inner circle of the Saudi government used to wear that userbar. That was the level of people that used that userbar.

Now it's being given out for 20000 bytes "lifetime". Wow. Just Wow.

OP - Good luck, the above is mainly just my projecting my thoughts that any group that people can buy into for a couple of dozen dollars can't think of itself as very high quality or worthwhile.

Cant buy in without being approved and thats why we finally locked on 9 members.
Get what you mean tho.
The original reason i bought it was the back in days status.

Completely agree with this sentiment - I think they should have just closed the group/rights to the Red Lions for good instead of selling it until it became a shadow of what it was.

I don't think it'll ever be what it used to be and I think that's a function of how the internet has changed.

Not all members were at that level. Yes the owner, as far as we know, was a high-ranking government official. I would not get carried away and state that about the entire group.

Not sure if OP even has the right to use the userbar considering he never was in the original group. And the fact that my animated Red Lions userbar is being used is questionable. It's common practice to rebrand once a crew is bought to respect the legacy.
