I tested it for the account activation and it's completely functional on that side

I didn't have an interest to test the other automation tools as the method wouldn't necessarily help that much for the kind of proxies that I use (I use rotating proxies, 5 at number, so I can't afford to have a separate proxy for each of the 100 accounts that I create and just insert them into the tool and automate, also the proxies sometimes crash, so that's why I choose to do the swiping with a chrome plugin), maybe in the future, when I'll invest in some better proxies

I can say that the tool has potential and @codingjesus is willing to update it whenever problems appear, so I'll 100% vouch for it.

I'm really curious how other people will use this tool ??
