Thread: Underrated anime?

Deany - May 3, 2023, 7:13 pm

Feel free to share here some underrated anime. Always looking for some new gems!

Beherit - May 3, 2023, 7:44 pm

Here's a few anime rated high in my list:

Beck: Mongolian Chop Squad - music anime I watched dubbed. Classic funimation.

Genshiken - slice of life anime about otaku life. Also watched dubbed.

Kyou kara Ore wa!! - comedy about delinquents

It was one of the first few shows I watched when I first started getting into anime. Out of all the music anime I've seen, it's at the top.

There's still a few I need to watch like Nodame Cantabile and Nana.

Tomodachi game. Feels like it always gets overshadowed by classroom of the elite.

Never seen DTB yet, looks cool tbh.

That Time I Got Reincarnated as a Slime

There was a film coming out for it in theaters, so I ended up watching the entire series to prepare for it (I did the same for Revue Starlight) and I ended up loving it. It's a bit repetitive, but the humor and heart are there.

Thank you for the interaction. Make anime adventures great again.

Zettai Karen Children: The Unlimited

I've literally never met anyone who's seen or even heard about this but I do recommend it, short action packed ESP/Battle anime from early 2000s.

The animation is great and story is a solid 8.5/10 for me.

Synopsis : Ryouhei Arisu is a high school student with no ambitions and just wants to escape from what he feels is a meaningless reality. One night when he is with his two friends Daikichi Karube and Chouta Segawa, they see an abnormally large firework shoot into the sky, an event which signals a permanent change in their lives.

Oh, Alice in Borderland. I might watch the live action before the anime since it's on my PTW list on Netflix.

Evolution Zero - May 16, 2024, 8:54 pm

Attack on Titan is pretty good.
