Chatting jobs? Do you mean like customer support?

Chatting support... If I understand correctly you would like a small wage from writing, if that is what you are looking for there are several websites that can offer you writing, interpreting and translating jobs for decent wages. In any case if your aim is just to chat with other people online I don't think you will find anything about it, I know at most some discord / telegram servers that for your activity on them can give you rewards (same for sharing group / servers)

Well to make some money from chatting you need to be an expert in one field because you need to help people in that field

You cannot expect to make money by normal chat with people like : how its your day ,what you eat etc
