Thread: Bulletproof domain providers in 2023

Dannisthethird - May 7, 2023, 5:54 pm

Hello fellow HF members

Could anyone point me to Bulletproof domain registrars on which I could update A records without needing to buy an extra DNS service from another place?

I've already searched on the forums and on google but couldn't get to find ones suitable for me (A records)

Thanks in advance <3

<https://njal.la/> - I highly recommend it.

Created by the founder of The Pirate Bay. Take a look at their about page and stuff. They are a very upfront and open company and tell you everything you need to know.

Thanks for your reply, though, I've read multiple comments by users here on HF complaining about their domains being taken down by njal.la, hence I was looking for alternatives

Interesting. I haven't had any negative experiences with them whatsoever nor have I heard of anyone else having any. They do have a few things they don't allow for moral reasons which they list on their site (CP and that kind of fked up stuff).

Not sure of any other reliable registrar. The reason Njalla can do it is because they are a company registered in Saint Kitts & Nevis where there is no internet laws.

interesting, this will probably be my plan B in case I don't find a better alternative/suggestions from others

Thank you a lot <3

Securednet is good if you talk to him directly on xmpp. Do not use the website.

The thing is that in reality literally any domain can be taken down, especially in grey hat area. If someone really want it and has the skills, then there is not much you could do about that.

Nowadays im using bpw.sc, they are reselling from nicenet chinesse registrar.

I have been using also russian registrars r01.ru/nic.ru in the past.
