Thought this might of of interest to some. Paxful is back despite apparently shutting down permanently a month ago. They released a statement on their site today.

<https://paxful.com/sign-up-transition>

Good news for those that liked using it I guess.

pax was mostly used for fraud sucks it's back again

Omniscient - May 15, 2023, 12:47 pm

Never really used Paxful. Looks like a new interface though right?

The previous CEO was a rat that tried to steal the company, they kicked his ass out after he ruined the company.

He's just salty that they are doing better now. Paxful is a shit exchange anyways.

I tried it once a few years ago. I was trying to buy some gift cards. Tried 3 different sellers (ones with supposedly good reputations) and all 3 tried scamming me lmao. Was a complete waste of time. Withdrew my money and never went back haha.

Yes localbitcoins was a great site to trade crypto I hope they will come back again. I've used paxful but it wasn't good.

Its to easy to get scammed while doing nothing wrong sometimes youll get a support agent who actually cares and does due dilligence other times it's just whatever is fastest and easier for them. We need a petition #BringLocalBTCBACK

Angelgirl01 - May 16, 2023, 1:20 pm

I was using Noone for a while now, I don't trade on paxful on gift card. Their gift card is all scam.

UNKNOWN1 - May 16, 2023, 1:29 pm

Now localbitcoins missing

seriouserial - May 16, 2023, 5:11 pm

Never had any idea that it went down. Might have missed it.

Ever heard of localmonero? It's like local Bitcoin. Just sucks that there isn't many for cash options unless you live in the big cities like new York or Los Angeles.

Mutsyy - May 20, 2023, 11:44 am

Most users from paxful are on noones now.
