Thread: I can't upload stories on Snapchat anymore - Why is Snap so strict suddenly?

Tacticity - June 15, 2023, 7:02 pm

Just a few weeks ago, I was posting on snapchat with no issues, I was able to mention words like "subscribe" "uncensored" "private story" and I would post clothed pics and vids, and then transition to lingerie content. A few weeks ago when I was doing my usual story sequence, I got immediately logged out and permanently locked.

I usually use aged snap accounts that are 7-10 years old, and whenever I'd get reported or flagged by snap, usually I'd just get a warning & have my story taken down and that's it. My aged snaps usually last around 1-2 weeks. Now it doesn't even matter if I use an aged snap or not, I get immediately logged out and banned.

I've ran tests with new snap accounts, and even if I post ONLY clothed pics and then I report myself, I still get banned and get an email from snap saying "Thanks for your report, we found this story violates our terms of conditions" blah blah.

Basically any photo I upload of any girl who is clothed, and report myself to see if it'll stand up to scrutiny, it results in an instant permanent ban.

And any story I upload even using casual words like "wanna play?" "switch over to my other snap" will result in an instant-ban, even if I'm only using clothed photos, and not mentioning of "sext" "video call" "premium" "private story".

I also see other girls on snapchat are still able to post clothed and lingerie photos without any issues, and I have many friends who are still E-Whoring on snapchat and posting lingerie content and mentioning premium snap without issues.

I have tried using new devices, new packs/new girls, new IP, no matter what I do, nothing seems to make a difference.

Can anyone give me some feedback or insight as to what I'm doing wrong? And can anyone let me know if they're experiencing the same issue? It seems like 2-3 weeks ago Snapchat increased their security SIGNIFICANTLY.

Thank you.

Yes, the security has got better and they are cutting down on spammers/ewhorers.

Wow, I was not aware of this. When did this happen?

Do you have any suggestions or advice as to how to work around it?

im really hoping there will be a slim bypass around it soon

Snap's recent earnings were down again and they need to bring in more advertisers. That means they need to crack down on certain types of accounts. This isn't new but they are just getting more aggressive.

All of these apps build their initial business on sex/sexworkers. When they get to a space where they don't need to rely on sex/sexworkers, they crack down. Paypal did it. [BRAND NAME REMOVED] did it. Snap is doing is now and so is Cashapp. Twitter might start cracking down if they think it will bring the advertisers back. Reddit will probably never crack down on anything. They'll leave that up to the mods.

Use Snapchat to move guys over to a more 'adult friendly' app, Telegram/Instagram for example. Then there sell them premium Snap, Onlyfans, or whatever else you're selling.

BikerDude - June 16, 2023, 11:59 am move to Onlyfans or snapchat alternative like kik, telegram

InnerEnergy - June 16, 2023, 12:48 pm

I would suggest you to move you only fans / loyalfans, that's way better than Snapchat

There is no bypass this time, this is an issue with Snapchat AI that has adapted and is too strict to bypass. Even when I posted clothed pics of any girl, and don't even put any text or wording, i get logged out after 2mins then perm banned. I am literally uploading casual selfies from girls off of Facebook who are real people. CLOTHED. No nudity, no lingerie, nothing! Just a girl in clothes taking a mirror selfie.

But if I post a snap of any other thing, like uploading a snap of a car or sidewalk or a selfie of my real self, then nothing happens. I only get banned whenever I upload a pic or video of ANY girl on my snap story..

Snapchat has apparently banned females from using its platform lol.

I could help you post things to story's but it won't be cheap. Cooking up some nice stuff.

I don't understand, how are you gonna do that? You gonna hack snapchat's servers and alter their API & mainframe? Lol.

This is an issue everyone seems to be having, which started 2 weeks ago. Snapchat did some update and they are cracking down on e-whoring really hard. I have tested with over 20+ accounts so far and tried posting stories of other girls, even casual clothed mirror selfies, and if I go on another snap acc and report the story just to test if it can stand up to scrutiny, the account gets banned within minutes. And I get an email saying "thank you for reporting blah blah we found this content violates our terms & conditions"

A clothed mirror selfie... makes no sense. I never had an issue with snapchat being this strict...
