

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Are you guys getting an Apple Vision Pro straight away?

Captain Hook - June 16, 2023, 2:32 pm

I have high hopes for it. I want to use it on my computers mostly, but I'm sure other features will make me use them. It just seems like the new laptop is here.

webdev77 - June 16, 2023, 2:35 pm

Absolutely zero chance I would even consider buying one. Just too expensive for something I have no real practical need for.

Captain Hook - June 16, 2023, 2:38 pm

(Jun 16, 2023 02:35 PM)webdev77 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Absolutely zero chance I would even consider buying one. Just too expensive for something I have no real practical need for.

Oh, that's sad you won't get lost in the new spiritual world. Well, if you change your mind I'll be there.

webdev77 - June 16, 2023, 2:41 pm

(Jun 16, 2023 02:38 PM)Captain Hook Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Oh, that's sad you won't get lost in the new spiritual world. Well, if you change your mind I'll be there.

I mean if I had infinite resources, sure I'd grab one just because, but that's not where I am. I think they could be pretty cool, just too expensive for normal people to acquire just for fun.

SIM-5320087 - June 16, 2023, 3:11 pm

Can't wait to spend all our money on something we probably don't really need.

padrino - June 16, 2023, 4:18 pm

Nah i don't think so. Don't get me wrong - the tech looks sick but for $3500 it's a no from me.

Disarray"" - June 16, 2023, 5:09 pm

I regularly purchase the most recent consumer-level VR/AR headsets every couple of years to assess their progress, but often return them after a week (thanks Amazon). The latest headset I tried was the Meta Quest Pro, which, while slightly underwhelming, could still be considered primarily a gaming console. Although the face and eye tracking features were interesting, they didn't significantly change the experience. For VR/AR to become truly mainstream, a considerable leap in technology is required, and I'm not convinced that Apple has achieved that. Rather than merely adding new features to existing technology, very significant improvements in weight reduction, text readability, and regular updates are necessary. I think companies keeping at VR is good as a whole for the tech, just i'm not interested in a VR gaming device.

Zexi - June 16, 2023, 7:20 pm

I'll be waiting until they release a VR sex simulation game and then i'll consider it.

Already got a homemade fleshlight that i made out of a pringles can, sponge and kitchen gloves. Just need good content and a engaging experience.

blackrose_x0x0 - June 16, 2023, 7:46 pm

I think it looks pretty awesome but for that price, no I will not be getting it when it comes out. I'll most likely wait a bit and get the Vision 2 SE or whatever when they eventually make more affordable options.

Cap - June 16, 2023, 7:52 pm

As much as I'd love to feel like Tony Stark, I couldn't justify spending $3500 on it.

The Pact - June 16, 2023, 7:54 pm

(Jun 16, 2023 02:32 PM)Captain Hook Wrote: CITE I have high hopes for it. I want to use it on my computers mostly, but I'm sure other features will make me use them. It just seems like the new laptop is here.

What even is it? I don't have any Apple products just because I noticed they cost one third more for the same specs as the alternatives.

Mario_returns - June 16, 2023, 9:17 pm

No chance. Maybe when version 5 is out then ill invest in a second hand v1 haha