Thread: Seeking Crypto Advice on Investing \$100 and Staying Updated

DMTx - July 4, 2023, 10:20 am

As a newcomer to the crypto space, I'm eager to learn from your experiences and expertise. One of my primary inquiries revolves around staying informed about the latest crypto news and developments. What are the goto sources that you rely on to stay up to date? Whether it's reputable websites, influential social media accounts, or other platforms, I'm keen to discover the best channels for keeping track of the evolving crypto landscape.

Thanks!

Most definetly i myself have a stable job im not planning to make this in to a full time thing my peers often try convincing me to invest

You make an excellent point that acquiring skills and knowledge can bring more longterm benefits than simply chasing after the latest coin hype. I believe engaging in crypto investments allows us to understand the dynamics of market volatility, risk management, and the influence of various factors etc.

cryptocurrency market has witnessed numerous success stories where individuals have achieved substantial profits by investing wisely in certain coins, including those initially labeled as "meme coins." While meme coins may carry higher risks, they can also present unique opportunities.

Let's keep this discussion open, I believe there is value in exploring different perspectives + approaches to crypt0 investing.

With a $100 investment, just but Bitcoin and hold it forever. Maybe one day it will be worth $5-10k. Trading that $100 is going to turn it into $1.
