I'm curious why do you keep closing the same thread with same content and open a new one all over again & again & again?

Do you know you can bump your existing thread using Bytes?

I didn't know about it. And my old Discord has been disabled so many old clients have not been able to contact me. I need to update it to my new thread.

You will see that button on top right side of your thread. You can use it to bump your existing thread to top for some byte fees. I think its 100 for Leet members I am not sure. But yes, you can bump your thread using that.

Please stick to this thread from now on.

If you want unlimited edits to your posts & lower bytes fees for bumps (50 Bytes per bump) consider applying for V3ndor upgrade.

I just renewed for a 3rd year. I haven't had any interruptions in service. The hours I've saved not watching ads has been worth the price.
