Thread: Group benefits suggestion

Neil - July 6, 2023, 6:38 am

Even though Omni loves purging groups & their benefits (but has a hard on for useless crews / syndicates),

What are some ways that we can suggest to buff up groups a little bit where people would want to actually join

Honestly, the bytes nerf was rough. I would have rather had no HUM eggs in groups because nobody plays that fuckin game

But if i suggest that, groups will have no bytes or no hum eggs :,)

We should just disable groups and use crews instead

Fax, so then mine can get its value back from the 100k cost of updating userbars and details.

Not wrong. But Im good with having it atm.
Id prefer having it as a group but it's hard to want to spend thousands on one in 2023.

Takes more than one group. Ive made efforts for several years and still do my part. Others gotta step up too.

(Jul 7, 2023 07:36 PM)-Scrub Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) There's like 100 active members if that
And out of those 100 how many do you see contributing to more than giveaways?

Not to say the giveaways and contests arent generous, they are, but the way theyre typically set up doesnt do anything for activity.

Posting activity is nice, but there's more needed than that.

Sky - July 7, 2023, 7:56 pm

(Jul 7, 2023 07:44 PM)-Scrub Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What's needed in your opinion? Some coding groups thatll fail because either they release something that's public or already done just with diff branding on it. Money making groups that release what exactly? There secret to making the money, business gets discussed among those in private where things don't get saturated. (IMO anyways) lounge group? That's the whole place at this point.. if contests and giveaways for cash don't get people going what will or do you think will anyways?

Contests could help but it would need to be things that encourage interaction and involvement and be something that is worth peoples time. A lot of people on here are well off, so a cheap prize wont entice a lot of people.

But things like graphics contests, scavenger hunts and the like are good way to get minor activity boosts, more depending on how it's organized.

We more than anything would need to find ways to bring in new members to the site and not troll them in the Lounge as soon as they show up so they cant at least get comfortable with the place before people try to run them off with negative things like trolling and negative popularities just for having a matching IP on their trust scans, despite the fact that in most cases is due to proxies and VPN's.

Fucking around and goofing off is fine, everyone enjoys it. But if people don't do anything at all to aid the community and forum itself, then in time more of these 'active members' will disappear.

Edit: sorry for a whole spill, but there isnt 1 definitive way to promise activity increasing, all anyone can do is try.

how about an award as a benefit while you're in the group ?
i can design one if this suggestion gets approved .

Personally, i doubt omni will give out any awards just because you're in a group

Plus, there are so many awards i feel like awards with a challenge would be good, just as they are now

I.e earn 25k posts, win an award
