Pretty much impossible these days. Some sites let you purchase it but you cant take it off site until you KYC .

There is other way though if you wanted to verify an exchange but i dont recommend doing this if your just using your bank debit because takes away the point of being Anonymous .

Pretty sure it's possible with residential SOCK5 and fake info. However the only people legitimately doing this at a scale where you can actually make good money are usually organized crime. If you're doing this in the states you have to be living off the grid or in the hood where you can house hop or you're eventually gonna get caught. Feds just need 1 day to catch you where you need to be lucky every day.

In short don't do this and get a job
