i played alot for 2 weeks for nostalgia but my time went out and i was getting insanely confused on the quest line might hop on blizzard's hardcore tho

Yes! Been playing since 2009 in Wrath. I main an orc fury warrior in retail rn but I ended up giving regular classic a shot recently because of the whole craze with hardcore. Having a huge blast levelling and making new friends and allat but definitely gonna give official hardcore a shot when it comes out.

I've played since MoP and quit in shadowlands. I have the itch to come back but none of my friends play and I've accomplished everything I wanted to. I'll be back I'm sure but might skip DF.

I skipped all of the classic hype and bc and wrath. Some of my friends really want me to come PvP on wrath cus I've been glad but I just don't really care to start from nothing. Since I never played vanilla and stuff the nostalgia isn't there for me.

I tried doing the hardcore ironman in vanilla, only made it to 23 lol. Had a bunch of toons that failed too

I'm back on retail for now..

I tried to get back into WoW for classic, and again for wrath but life is too busy to commit to the time required for raiding. It seems pointless to play if you don't raid as any sort of achievement outside of raiding can just be done on retail.

Back on Dragonflight now just to play super casually. Enjoying the mindless grind to level all my toons up so far.
