In no case do not purchase a product from third parties and also do not use the script that can be found in open sources: in the best case you will get an old and irrelevant version without the ability to get any technical support, and in the worst case u get a changed version of the script with built-in backdoors and other troubles. It is better to buy once and get high-quality technical support and 100% safe code than losing all the money earned due to harmful code or incorrectly working software

Well, it depends on what kind of drainer you want, I prefer a multichain drainer. By the way, it's not so hard to learn how to make your own. After a few YouTube lessons, you should be able to build a simple drainer?.

Of course, feel free to check the marketplace, if you plan to deal on HF be sure to read the Help Docs tho, there are few things to be aware of to deal safely, such as contracts and deal disputes.
