Get any work you can. Clean, serve, cashier, it don't matter.

At the same time learn high income skill set.

By 1-2 years you would have saved a decent amount of money and learned a significant high income skill set which you can start to apply and build your wealth that way.

Get any local job if you have no computer skills.

I'd recommend getting a service-industry job like a waiter/waitress. Then do some type of side hustle so you can have supplemental income. Oh and i strongly recommend you go with a company that offers benefits such as insurance, vacation, and paid time off.

Good luck

The service industry such as restaurants are usually pretty good. Start with anything, anywhere then work your way up

If you have only phone, call center scam is your way:)

Of course buddy that was a joke, you need to find a job, any job first of all to buy a laptop or etc

The best commodity you have is your body. Organs fetch a decent price these days.

without skills or knowledge the best way to get money is to change your time for money. this is also the best advice for any other guy here who is in the same situation

Smile and Dial.. alot of businesses in my area anre looking for cold callers to bring in new business. Find industries like solar, tv, pest control, etc that are looking for appt setters. Tough at first but once you get going you can then do more on the side.

Even if someone gave you $50 for today what will you do after you spend that 50? Ask for more? There are two ways, work a job, save then invest in a business that you know about. Can be in any business industry from clothing to music development. Then grow your business from that point.

Secondly if you wish to make money from your phone and do nothing, the only say, the only possible and risking way is through selling some cheap stuff from your home, say old microwave, irons, anything that will go to pawn or a dollar store and put those $$$ into a gambling site and carefully play the games. But because you want to only win so carefully play every game and see which has made you the best profit and keep doing that but don't high roll or all the funds be gone just like that.

Organs only could be sold once, other parts could be sold multiple times.....

Blood and Sperm can be very valuable if sold to the right place.
