

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: I'M IN DESPERATE NEED FOR HELP!

Death - July 25, 2023, 1:48 pm

Hello everyone...

It's very hard for me to be writing this, because since I'm doing it means that this is literally my last hope left.

I'm a 24 year old boy that has had and keep having an insanely hard life. Born in a pretty messed up country where such thing as normality doesn't exist. Where there is no mid tier but only very rich or very poor families. And yeah, I was born on a poor one. Only my father used to work as a teacher of chemistry, which he soon quit to go work in construction for 50 more bucks of salary. Mother would stay home and raise me and my sister.

Having such conditions had me raised without anything, not even the basics. Also through school years I couldn't even have a few pennies so I can buy something to eat, like every other kid had from their parents. This situation did good to me though, cause I couldn't stand it, and started working since I was 13.

With time the tables switched. I went from having $0 while the other kids had like $2 or even $5 daily from their parents, to having $100+ almost every week.

This got me used to money since a very young age. I was doing quite good. Always trying to better myself and make more money on the way.

Now at May 2016, life totally changed. My father died of cancer, after having done a surgery on December 2015. Guess he had it beforehand and the surgery just activated it. I was 16 at that time, and I was left with my mother and sister. Being in a country with a lot of traditions, I had to replace my father in every kind of event, for good and for bad. At that time it was quite hard, cause I was the only kid in the middle of grown up men and women. But still, also this among with a lot of other things made me build character, which at this age I value it a lot. Anyways, I kept working more and more always, kept learning all the possible kind of things, tried almost everything to make money, and I did well. Was able to maintain a family of 3 alone, until very recently.

Having a lot of stress and pressure from all the late happenings in my life, performance on work decreased. Which at the end led to being fired. All the savings I had gathered, with which I wanted to get a loan to buy a house in the city where I was staying and working, all got erased due to the health problems all the 3 of us in my family had, one after another.

Right now I'm in a situation that I am left without a single penny. Cannot pay this month's rent, which is 350 EUR and at the moment is a priority or I will be sent out, cannot do anything at all. My friends cannot help me out cause also they are not at their best right now, cannot take loans cause I have gotten before but being unable to pay them in time got me a red cross on the list of customers, not allowing me to get anymore in the future.

I literally don't have where to go or what to do. This is honestly my last hope left.

The sad part is that I am quite good in doing like everything. I can setup and maintain Shopify stores, I can setup a perfect GoFundMe that can generate earnings for whatever case, which I wanted to do but apparently since my country is crap, it's not listed on their website, so I am unable to do it. I can setup an Etsy store linked with Printify, which I also wanted to do, because I also have insanely good prompts for AI to generate insanely good images so Printify can work its magic. But again Etsy didn't have my country listed so I couldn't become a vendor. I understand social media, I know advertisements very well. I know a lot of other useful things too, because I have studied them a lot to do them myself. But I simply cannot put it to work for myself, because of the country I am.

Give me work, I can work for you guys, I can do anything that's needed. Even if I don't know how, I can learn it real quick, I'm not lazy.
I can pay you back somehow.

But really, HONESTLY, at this point of time, I really am in need for cash. And I have no way left I have exhausted all my options.

I know a the majority of people won't even read all this. Also a high percentage won't even care about it. There may also be people who might start to talk bad about it in some way, I don't know. But honestly, I am desperate right now. I would really appreciate if you guys can help me get out of this mess until I can get back to my feet again.

I will do whatever it takes, cause my ships are already burned.

Will leave my wallet addresses below hoping for the best:

[deleted]

Guys thanks a million times in advance.

Advices for me are also welcomed.

God bless you all! [warn]

Omniscient - July 27, 2023, 12:06 pm

Sorry but we don't allow donation begging on HF.