Residential Backconnect Rotating/Static/Dedicated Proxy Services

Our platform offers a distinctive assortment of proxy services, including residential backconnect proxies, backconnect rotating proxies, and residential rotating proxies. While the terminology varies, they all essentially serve the same purpose. We also offer direct, dedicated residential proxy IPs, with unlimited bandwidth.

The term "residential" denotes that our proxies utilize genuine residential IPs connected through Wi-Fi or cellular networks like 3G/4G/LTE. These IPs are owned by actual network providers, enhancing their authenticity.

The combination of "backconnect" and "rotating" signifies that our server maintains live proxy connections and triggers immediate IP rotation whenever a proxy connection becomes inactive.

Origin of Our Proxy Network

We've developed a highly dependable Proxy Exchange Platform that sources IPs from verified ISPs (Internet Service Providers) and mobile network operators globally. This meticulous sourcing ensures that our proxy pool remains one of the most pristine in the market.

Versatile Applications of Residential Proxies

Residential proxies offer unique advantages in various scenarios, aligning with diverse business objectives. Here are some instances where they prove invaluable:

- Data Scraping, Efficiently gather extensive data from the web.
 - Price Monitoring, Monitor and analyze competitor prices or gather e-commerce pricing data.
 - Ad Verification, Ensure accurate ad performance on legitimate web platforms.
 - Social Media Management, Execute actions like mass liking, following, and posting across different locations without the risk of blocks.
 - SEO Management, Collect and analyze search engine data to enhance website performance and rankings.
- Residential proxies stand out due to their recognition as genuine users, reducing the likelihood of bans compared to datacenter proxies.
