- 1) check engine via Wappalyzer and read docs.
- 2) enumerate admin folders.
- 3) search configs in DB

Wappalyzer is not free ??

dirbuster will scan for directories

You could use wappalyzer as it could tell you which CMS the website is using, if that doesn't seem to work then you could fuzz the website's directories and subdirectories using a tool like FFUF, if that also doesn't work then try manually searching for the login page on the website or use admin panel finding tools.
