But man, I remember me and this girl called Vicky got left/didn't go on a school trip somewhere. And there was this thunderstorm. And she literally started crying it was the funniest thing ever. But I don't mean it in an evil way, as I'm still laughing about it now. It's just coming back to me how funny it was watching her freak out OVER RAIN. Vicky was her name I'm sure, and she reminds me of my cat Garfield, he gets freaked out over anything. Anyway, Vicky, thanks for the laugh again and I hope you've overcome your fear of rain/thunder and lightning. LMFAO!

If I bullied you ever, if I was a cunt, or a show off to =-MS=- -- I apologise and hope I can make you happy some day. Amen

Its highly unlikely that this Vicky's on HF. Even if she was, she might not remember the experience like you do.

Yeah probably not I mean, I laughed AT her at the time, but I remember her face and it just makes me laugh. Unless I dreamed it or something I doubt it though seems real. I was a cunt as a kid, but it's really, truly not my fault.

I had problems, insecurities, and no real friends. My whole life has been the devil. Literally, the government were watching me my whole life and kept me on computers, I'm now 27 and still poor and still a mess.

A BBC 1extra DJ made me run into the back of a lorry at 100mph and I broke both my legs. One is never going to recover. So you can call me Lester (GTA5)

You genuinely sound like someone I grew up with.
