Thread: What Is Your Favourite Clothing Brand?

Blockonome - August 31, 2023, 3:22 am

Wondering what kind of style HF has....

For me, personally, I have a favourite brand that originated in London called Heresy.

This is also what I based my HF Crew on, when I had one. (Should I bring it back?)

www.Heresy.london - Makes the most unique clothes I have ever seen, and for that I have big appreciation.

Own a lot of their clothes, however it is quite pricey as well.

What is your favourite brand, please link their website, as I would like to see some new brands, I might not know.

W4RL0RD - August 31, 2023, 5:07 am

Big fan of Hollister here.

Never been big into clothing brands but when a friend introduced me to Hollister their clothing style and material was just unmatched. I still wear only Hollister to this day ??

I do have some clothes from Hollister as well, I do really like what they make most of the time, for a more formal/casual wear!

Boom!! So glad you agree!

I always get shat on sayin how they outdated and old. But I disagree! Their website is constantly poppin haha.

I have been making my own clothes lately. Invested in a sewing machine awhile back and I'm still working out the kinks. I want to try new things, maybe make a suit for someone, but I don't have the hobby money rn. My favorite personal style floats between bohemian, goth, or vintage housewife. Depends on the day really. :)

I don't know your gender, but I would agree that plus size clothing is in a sad state for options. Half the time seems like the patterns are just upsized without considering the change in body composition which just makes it look... frumpy. I've always had to tailor my clothes by hand after I became a teenager since I'm top-heavy. Can give some instruction if needed.

This is fascinating, makes me think of grunge from first impressions. Like the large pockets too. I have similar sized pockets in my dresses.

crooks and castles have been my fav since 2011

blackrose_x0x0 - September 1, 2023, 9:39 am

Patagonia and The North Face are my go to brands. I like Black Diamond too but more so for their gear rather than clothing.

Bastille - September 1, 2023, 9:51 am

For day to day Pull&Bear is affordable and they make good clothes as well as Uniqlo, with their "basics" clothes.

The Kooples can have good some good pieces and it's interesting when it's on discount, otherwise it's too expensive in my opinion.

I'm not that much into luxury things, but if I have to own a beautiful piece I would go for a Balmain coat for sure, I thought about buying one before I met my ex girlfriend and before she burned all my fucking savings with her depression ?

awakebutdreaming - September 1, 2023, 6:03 pm

Not a brand, but a type.

For some reason I got really into chinos last 2 years. Love them

V?rt - September 1, 2023, 8:06 pm

I've always appreciated designer stuff, just never really bought much of it. I don't really wear name-brand stuff right now because I'm working out and losing weight. I'd like to get to my goal before I start buying clothes, but I think I want to try and buy some designer clothes whenever I get there. Maybe some Louis Vuitton

LeetSpeed - September 2, 2023, 12:08 am

I'm a fan of adidas. Mostly the vintage stuff.

I enjoy the Nautica brand, I haven't really worn it in a while but once I get these funds up definitely gonna get back on that lol..

Yanix - September 2, 2023, 2:57 am

Nothing in particular but Nike and Adidas are cool for me.

Ellyqueen - September 2, 2023, 3:24 am

My favourite brand is Zara. Affordable and many choices

Bennywest - September 4, 2023, 6:32 pm

Nike tech is my favorite ! :)

Sigma - September 4, 2023, 7:15 pm

All saints is one of my favorites.

Yin Yang - September 4, 2023, 8:22 pm

I used to be a Nike head and cared a lot about brands and designer clothing. But nowadays, definitely like the comfort and non-brand

Zan - September 4, 2023, 9:40 pm

I like to wear quality materials only with minimalistic branding. None of that designer stuff.

SRT - October 7, 2023, 10:17 pm

Balmain, Givenchy, Fendi

perm - October 9, 2023, 2:46 pm

All long lasting buy it for life brands. Which are not many right now :(

Alpha Geek - October 9, 2023, 3:52 pm

Whatever looks good and fits nice. I don't really pay attention to brands like that.

I've always been a fan of Techwear brands, particularly ACRONYM. Their designs are futuristic, functional, and have this urban cyberpunk vibe that I absolutely love. The gear is quite pricey, but the quality and innovation in their products are unmatched.

<https://acrn.com> - If you're into high-tech apparel and futuristic aesthetics, definitely worth a look.

Anyone else into techwear or any other futuristic fashion genres?

Right now, I import most clothing products myself. 90% savings and a 500% increase in quality because the clothing isn't made to break down in a few months.

nice! thats cool yea i try to go for just comfortable cheaper clothing

Crowned - October 27, 2023, 6:06 pm

There isn't a specific brand that's my "favorite". I simply choose whatever looks good and is comfortable.

Jinu - October 27, 2023, 11:17 pm

Not stick to any specific brands but who I buy from which brand provide good offers.

Cooligan - October 27, 2023, 11:23 pm

Honestly I really like Off White clothing. Their designs are sleek and modern, yet they don't look over the top imo.

I also like Supreme box logo hoodies (call me a hypebeast I know lol), and Louis Vuitton because of their belts and accessories.

Gucci makes some quality clothing as well.

Dorrance - October 27, 2023, 11:34 pm

Walmart has to be the best brand tbh

Broheim - October 28, 2023, 2:30 am

I like Nike and Adidas.

LOUD - October 28, 2023, 9:27 pm

I don't necesarrily have a "favorite" brand but I definitely rock a lot of Nike.
