Thread: Free Method to Earn from Aliexpress Affiliate and Facebook Groups

oqexticc - October 1, 2023, 3:56 am

So this method will focus on Facebook groups + the AliExpress affiliate program. If you want you can use the Amazon affiliate program as it's a lot more popular but the bottom line is you want an affiliate program that has loads of physical products you can choose from to advertise.

Past Results

Here are some results first to motivate you to read through the steps in the method

Clicks: 7,548

Sales Revenue: $191.73

7,548 Clicks and almost $192 in sales revenue

Alright so let's get started

For this method, you will need a Facebook account (an aged account preferably) and a little bit of research.

Choose a niche (most niches work) and then move onto the next step. I am using the cleaning tools niche for this.

Choosing a Product

Try to choose a product that is a consensus in your chosen field.

For me, the important things are:

Price - Can't be too high, but also can't be too low. A good price is around $10

Recommendations/Reviews - Needs to have a good review score and it's best if the reviews are filled with them saying they recommend you to try it

I chose to advertise an insect net cleaner that I found on AliExpress that had great reviews and was selling for $13.

Once you have a winning product, generate your link and write a decent review for the product. Save this all onto a Word file. For the review, you can literally plug a prompt into ChatGPT and engineer it a little bit to make it sound more human.

Choosing a Facebook Group

Next step is probably the most important. You need to find a public and active facebook group around your niche.

The size of the group isn't most important, it's the frequency of posts and how many people interact with each post on average. You want to see how many posts a day are being made and look at some of the recent ones to see their likes and replies.

Especially because you're promoting a product, and social proof is king, you need good reply engagement to make the recommendation seem natural.

Review Crafting

Once you've found your group you need to make a post reviewing your product. Take a look at other viral posts and structure your review to be a bit like them to maximize your chances at virality.

Here's a couple points on the structure of the review:
What the product is and what it does.

Emphasize the cheap cost and that it is very much worth the investment.

Make it clear that it solves a problem that you used to have.

Make sure to include a couple pictures of the product to keep it engaging

DON'T post your affiliate link in the post!!

Once you've posted your link, the post won't go viral as people don't need to interact with the post to get the product you're advertising.

You want to create good discussion from the post (replies, questions comments etc). If there are negative comments just ignore them. Positive comments, you can like but they're not really what you're looking for. When people reply asking for the link, then you can respond with the affiliate link to them, this targets the people most likely to want to buy it.

This way your post generates more and more comments to allow it to grow more and so it's shown to more people. Let discussion build on the post however. If the first few comments are asking for the link, don't respond until it grows a bit more.

My Post

My engagement stats from my post two weeks ago are the following:

255 Likes + 781 comments + 1 share

This way of replying to comments, means that it stays an active discussion post for a couple of days and you can get sales days after you first start putting your link in the replies.

Merci Beaucoup

Hope you enjoyed the method and give it a try.

You definitely won't become a millionaire, and it requires a little bit of work, but if you rinse and repeat correctly, you can definitely pull $1k a month from this

Leave some bytes if this helps you and good luck to you all!!
