What does the HF community do for work?

I'm interested to see if there is particular trend among us, I would think most of us would work in tech/IT.

I am a Data Analyst and soon to be a BI Analyst. I create SQL Server Reporting Services reports and Power BI dashboards. I also produce data extracts from a SQL Server database and create database objects.

Retail, deliveries as a side hustle and I will soon start working on an OF agency.

Software Engineer. I think you'll be surprised by how few actually do work in tech/IT.

Officially working as a network and sys admin, planning to officially move to cybersecurity at the end of the year, I'll probably go to a SOC Analyst job

Same here, I do deliveries for Domino's and I do uber eats deliveries on the side. Both rake in good money. Working about 8-10 hours I can make $300

How long have you been doing deliveries for?

Domino's I did quit for a few years to go work in a slower industry, but then that job got way too busy for way too little pay. I asked for a pay raise and they declined so I left. A year later, I went back to Domino's and I've been there since February. Uber Eats, I just started last month for the extra cash.

Ah I see. I was doing Glovo/Wolt (basically european ubereats) as a full time job for 1.5 years and it just got boring, riding alone and noone to talk to for hours. I'm working 2 months now at a new job in sales with an amazing team and doing Wolt just as a side hustle (around 10 hours a week)

Oh! Yeah I've definitely noticed that but I usually bring my cousin out with me, my best friend or my girlfriend! It's a lot more entertaining with people with you

That's true, my ex rode with me for about 2 months, that was fun indeed just blasting loud music and vibing!

That's exactly what we do! We're either jamming out or were having good conversations. I just do the driving and deliveries and they just ride passenger and they can DJ

Yeah definitely man! Driving is a big part of me and I absolutely love it. The fact that my girl can enjoy it as well and appreciate it. It's beautiful.

So I work for a company that specializes in Traffic Safety. We setup work zones following state guidelines for contractors to setup shop and work in. We flag said workzones when necessary with a stop/slow paddle or a red flag. We have a sign shop guy who prints and builds our signs. We setup detours, lane closures, lane shifts, road closures. Etc..

Wasn't me. Sounds like they needed to make themselves more visible. I passed a workzone this morning around 5AM that was lit up like a Christmas Tree. Really hard to miss everything that was going on.

Software and real estate :)

SIM-2090815 - October 3, 2023, 12:06 pm

Seems like a good ol' mix. I too did some Uber Eats and Deliveroo deliveries when I was studying for my degree, can be some good money in it and its easy and quite fun if you like driving.

That's an interesting question. It does seem like a lot of folks in the HF community are tech-savvy. As for me, I'm into coding and programming, just trying to improve my skills and I work as full stack web dev. What about you all? What do you do for work?
