Thread: What app should I reverse for my BS degree?

paul192812 - October 7, 2023, 3:54 am

Hi, I am final year in CompSci, and I want for my final project to crack or reverse an app, I prefer something simple-ish since I'm not that good into reversing, something made in java or c#, or that I could abuse a reverse proxy to bypass the auth. Can you suggest some lesser known apps you use that I could try "hacking" for my uni final project?

This is a wrong subforum for this sort of question.

You might get better answer in Reverse Engineering subforum.

Or are you looking for this to aid in cloning the app, to pass the finished product off as your creation? I just curious what you're needing here, and to see if you've thought this through.

Nah, I just want to maybe find some vulnerabilities and disclose them to the developers and after that publish it as research on my project, like a "step by step" guide on what i did
