Thread: Why do Japanese/Asian people have weird teeth?

YungBruhz - October 11, 2023, 9:18 am

Even the attractive girls have weird crooked teeth, do they have dentists over there, is their teeth beauty standards different than the west?

Night Storm - October 11, 2023, 9:42 am

What do you mean by weird ?

In a good way or is it about the shape that you do not like ?

Jinu - October 11, 2023, 10:00 am

Dental health and appearance can be influenced by genetics, lifestyle, and cultural practices, so it's not accurate to label the dental characteristics of any group as "weird." It's always best to treat people as individuals and avoid making assumptions based on their appearance or ethnicity.

I feel like they're shaped weirdly, like they never wore braces or something ?

Why do you have a weird attitude? ?

Same here. My parents too. Even if somebody has issues, it can be cured/fixed.

During her childhood she went to the dentist more times than she wanted.
Even with some shape difference people look cute. Greet her she'll love you more.

Not most of them have this issue.

Though, I would humbly advise you to not judge people by their looks.

Looks can be decisive but they are good people ?

Don't do anything stupid when she has her braces ON. ?

I see many attractive Japanese girls with good teeth.

But honestly what the hell does it matter, if she is faithful (which many Asian girls seem to be) and you both love each other then fuck teeth, if it is something that bothers her then help her get it fixed. If it is something that bothers you then you are the problem.

Not everyone has access to good dental care. I'm not sure how it is in Japan but I've seen plenty of Japanese girls with nice looking teeth though.

I saw a Japanese girl with teeth like that, although she was very athletic and good looking, I noticed her teeth aren't "perfect" like you'd see celebs in US have, although I realize most of celebs in the US wear veneers of some sort, still, I know Japanese people are hard on beauty and stuff, was just wondering ?

True, I was just wondering if it's like a genetic thing there. You know how there's a stigma about "EU Teeth" being crooked and bad and there are memes about it, so was just wondering ?

yeah more or less.

Every "race" has some "perks"

You notice the difference between EU teeth and US teeth? Like even if they're both naturally EU teeth seem to be more crooked, I think it's genetical ?

could you provide some optical examples please?

I think it was a very popular trend back then in Japan, fang tooth are "Yaeba" means double tooth. Crooked teeth symbolise "purity" and "sexual innocence".

Oh yeah it can be fixed but the original poster of this thread got a bad attitude of discriminating Asians and I think that attitude seems really hard to fix.

evilginx - October 11, 2023, 4:08 pm

maybe because they have small eyes? o.O

MavenGradle - October 11, 2023, 4:17 pm

Have you walked the streets once in your life? It isn't just Asian people that have bad dental health. It's EVERYONE.

DashPHP - October 11, 2023, 8:16 pm

Not the right post to make OP, I have many Asian friends who have fantastic teeth.

Yeah. It seems either he personally doesn't like them or doesn't know what to ask.

Yo, be respectful, man. Different cultures have different beauty standards. In Japan, for instance, slightly crooked teeth, especially the canine teeth, are considered cute - they call it "yaeba."

Hungry4Knowledge - October 29, 2023, 6:44 am

Are they any different than Japanese boys' teeth?

ubas - February 5, 2024, 8:09 pm

mixed here, I do not have weird teeth but I can show you weird xD

Blora - February 6, 2024, 10:16 am

This feels a bit racially-motivated, no?
