I would say Dubai. You experience next level of luxury and nightlife.

Dubai isn't my favorite. I prefer simpler places.

What kind of places are those? I prefer one with safe and good nightlife.

I like calm places, for safe nightlife, try Tokyo. It's fun and safe.

You'll have fun and fuck tired, but did you know you can't drink in Dubai?

You can not drink in public area in dubai, like on road or on beaches. But in lounges, pubs, clubs or in 5 Star Hotels bar - you can simply have it, Or you can carry from duty-free and have it in your hotel suites.

I'm not really into travelling but I'd love to try an Asian country vacation. Their culture seems nice specifically in Japan.

Ah, that's gotta be when I took a trip to Tokyo a few years back. Absolute madness, mate! The tech scene was insane, and the nightlife was something else.

Only if the lounges & hotels, and restaurants have a license to sell alcohol.

Many hotels do not have a license to sell alcohol, and the tourists are surprised to learn that upon arrival.

My Favourite spot so far has to be Dominican Republic

Always stay in 5 Star and above, like Hyatt Etc.

Any vacation where I get to travel somewhere new! We haven't gone to any new countries in a couple years, not since the pandemic really. But we're planning a trip somewhere (deciding where now) for early next year.

The Bahamas. We got engaged in Nassau and had an incredible time while we were there, absolutely beautiful location and so many fun things to do and see.

Planning a huge vacation to Cali. After that in a few years I plan on going to Japan. The best thus far was the cruise I took.

Iceland, it was a bit cold when I went. I had a great time there.

Costal/ island based countries are good locations to have vacations, But how do you pass the humidity level of those places?
