Jinu - October 29, 2023, 10:41 am

Hello fellow gamers,

I wanted to share some fantastic news with all of you. If you don't know of it, Supercell, the developer of Clash of Clans and Clash Royale, has officially made both games globally playable on PC through Google Play Games (beta). This is a game-changer for those of us who love these titles and have been looking for new ways to enjoy them.

Official Announcement Details:

Supercell's General Manager of Clash of Clans, Stuart McGaw, expressed their commitment to putting players first, and their desire to make playing on PC possible. They believe this addition will bring the Clash community even closer together and provide more ways to enjoy the game.

How to Get Access:

To get started, all you need to do is visit Google Play Games and start playing. It's that simple!

Key Features on PC:

- Mouse controls for a more precise gaming experience.
- Optimized graphics for enhanced visuals.
- High-end performance capabilities for a smoother gaming experience.

Common Questions Answered:

Here are some common questions you might have:

Google Play Games is currently available only for Windows.

Future Plans:

Supercell is considering the possibility of bringing other games like Hay Day, Brawl Stars, and Boom Beach to PC, but no promises have been made yet. They're open to exploring different platforms while continuing their strong focus on mobile gaming.

I don't play either but I know how wildy popular these games are, and thats why I'm so surprised to hear they are just now becoming PC accessible. I'm sure people have found ways to do it on their own before this though.

That's great! Could get back into Clash Royale on PC.

Can't believe that they've actually done it. Through out the years you either had to use emulators such as bluestacks or play on your phone which was quite annoying

Thanks for sharing this! I just started playing Clash Royale on mobile a few months back.

I will have to download and check it out on PC shortly.

I didn't know that Clash of Clan we're also popular in here. I remember it was all over my place 8 years ago but I didn't like the gameplay or any game similar to it.

I might try to play it now that it is available on PC.

Damn so it only took them 11 years to get a PC version made of the game!

Lol you'd think with how much money they've made from CoC over the years that this would've been done long ago purely from a marketing standpoint alone.

Actually it's not a standalone app for COC. It's Google Play which helps to play it on PC.

You have to download Google Play app for PC. Then it will list out the games that supported PC Version. You can download COC or Clash Royale and play. Same like Bluestacks but I feel a little bit smoother and shutter free when compared with BS.

Google Play is simple and neat without ads when compared to BS or any other app players.

Well at least it's a step forward. Took them a while though, not gonna lie.

I downloaded last night and played for about an hour. Definitely feels smoother than BlueStacks and I am glad to be able to mess around on my PC with this now. ??

BlueStacks always ran really poorly on my PC too. I haven't had any issues with this yet. ?

I haven't played COC in a long time. I do really enjoy Clash Royale though. How about you?

Ah okay so it's not a CoC client necessarily that you download or anything, it's just a Android app basically. Gotcha now.

Do they offer it in the App Store for iOS as well or only on Google Play?

Still though I'm surprised it took a company the size of CoC took this long to capitalize on an Android app.
