Thread: Using Turkish \(or any other country's\) VCC for buying accounts

I was wondering if people still use this method to buy cheap accounts. If yes, are you still using the Turkish route or did you switch to any other country? If you are still using Turkish ones, which one do you prefer using and why?

Someone was selling this as a method if my memory serves right.

If you are uncomfortable discussing it in the thread, would you mind telling me a few more details in convo? For instance, which providers are you using now and which ones the best?

I sell the method as a mentorship and provide all information required to do this. Hit me up if you are interested. The public methods will not work anymore, and you need a Turkish ID to make an account on the apps now. I provide a way for this too. ?

You can find the names as it is public very easy online, but you won't be able to register as I said in the previous post above. If you are interested in starting a service or using it for public use, hit me up. ?
