Thread: Smoke loader and Amadey

SyntaxError - November 3, 2023, 2:40 pm

So I am trying to start with malware and have found smoke and amadey to be the best loaders. What I am trying to do is too use stealers and silent miners but I don't know if it is worth to buy these expensive loaders now or if I should start with cheaper options and move my way up as I go. What do you guys recommend for me to do?

Also I've seen that the loaders have been around for a while and was wondering if they still are viable. Also I am not a complete beginner and I get why native loaders are better and I have read about spreading methods and also about what crypters are and binding malware to other files, etc.

any tool is worth it if you have the right amount of traffic source.

Okay so is there any method you'd recommend except torrent spreading and landing pages. Also would you recommend smoke or amaday loader and does crypting it make it FUD?

If you're concerned about price points you can find jinx loader (which is in the market) for 200$ lifetime, as for stealers, any stealer on the market worth it's salt won't be cheap, you won't be able to escape high prices on those, start with a loader and buy the stealer once you have good flow, that way you don't invest so much without seeing reward

I mean price isn't really the issue as long as i get results you know. Like for example if i buy a good stealer for a month its like 200 then good loader like 500 then btc miner like 300 and then maybe 500 for spreading and with that budget would i get good results?

That's why I said start with loader, believe me you'll thank me later if you don't rush in head first, mining is not worth it by any means at all.

If mining isn't worth it what type of malware should I use except a loader? Cause like can I make money using a loader cause I thought they were only for loading on other malwares.

Loaders are usually exceptional for things like bin size, persistence, memory loading and etc. really the profit in malware these days is on the mobile side of things however

So like how would you recommend I start off?

Two main options really, start with something cost effective and try your best, if and when it goes well you could invest more into a good stealer or so if you stick with PC

If you go the mobile route I'm unsure, I've never used mobile stuff and that's more prevalent on other forums (which I'm not sure if I'm allowed to name)

What is something cost effective?

That is up to you, cost effective to you could be different than to me, cost effective to me is starting with just a loader and a crypter since loaders usually have good detection rates then once I get enough bots for it to be worth it I invest more, maybe a stealer or something.

Where do you buy jinx by the way?

Of course, you're always free to formulate your own opinions and make the best decision for you, these are just my thoughts

Aight just one question, after how many victims should I invest in a tool to make me money like a silent miner or a stealer?

Jinx loader was good ending of last year but the coder abandoned the project
