main thing is marketing, if you dont have a solid marketing plan / audience to sell to, dont even bother setting one up imo

If you need help lmk your budget go watch 50 hours of youtube videos on each subject

- creating well made shopify stores
- creating good video ads
- overall dropshipping tips (watch videos from a wide range of channels so you dont fall for a scamartist, try find the small ones with low views/subs)
- finding good dropshipping products
- how to run facebook/tiktok ads (find a bunch of different methods, this isnt as big as you think is. its basically all about your ad creatives)

now you are 200+ hours in and should probably have a fairly decent understanding of the basics, and have a slight idea of how to spot bullshitting conartists. you'll think you know everything and can make $100k/month now, go start a shopify store, pick a product, create your ads.. you'll realize they suck and you get 0 sales, do this 30 times will reviewing your store/ads/campaigns, what you did badly... make sure you improve each time... you'll see store 5 is 10x better than store 1, ads are way better etc...

if you want, find a reputable discord paid group to join; so you can have a community to talk to and bounce ideas off of, problem solve together.

don't look for a short cut, just put the time in to develop the skills needed
