Are you doing vouch copies? [warn]

I'm offering a discounted package for the first client, but it will unfortunately be difficult for me to provide free mentorship/analysis as it's very time intensive for me.

This makes sense i can imagine that, i've always wanted to get into Youtube, would you say this is useful for an absolute beginner when it comes to Youtube?

In regards of the VIP package is this a niche specific thing or youtube channel in general regardless of what your customer wants to grow?

And in regards of the Basic package, can i perhaps see a list of niches so i know wether this would suit me or not, i don't want to grow a Youtube channel just for the hecks of it with a topic that doesn't interest me at all you know, i want to grow something that has my interest and can still grow properly.

i'm good at marketing in general, i'm good at design as well, and i know how to do basic+ video editing, i'm also pretty creative, i assume these are skills that would be helpfull hence why i'm mentioning it.

How much discount on each would that discounted copy be?

TORONTOTOKYO - November 24, 2023, 5:54 pm

Is this applicable for newbie? Like no YouTube channel currently?

What are the skills required for this?

It's definitely useful for people starting out as I've noticed that what keeps most people from hitting record is picking the right niche, topics, and getting initial views. Most people think it's easier than it looks, but then are surprised when their videos don't get traction, and that's when they quit.

All the packages are tailored to your needs. There's no specific niche that I recommend more than the other. I've helped people grow their makeup channels, personal lifestyle channels and mysterious stories channels and all types of different niches.

Those skills are definitely important, because you have the technical skill. What I'll help you with is the general direction. How to use those skills to actually get traction.

Feel free to PM me if interested.

It's great for newbies as you would be able to save months of trial and error.

Depending on the niche you end up choosing and multiple other factors, I suggest having basic photo/video editing skills.

Do you have a team ready to make the video's or do we need to search them?

What is the minimum investment in the video's needed?

How long until we see profit?

We don't make the videos, I just work with you to determine a niche and create video ideas for you. I can provide ways to create videos using AI, or provide video editors if needed at an extra cost.

Investment depends on many factors. You can do it completely free if you have time.

Hard to estimate how long you see profit. I've monetized channels within 2 weeks and others have taken longer time.

I recently invested in his YouTube coaching session and was thoroughly impressed. The coach's passion was unmistakable, adding great value to the experience. The session was conducted smoothly, marked by a friendly and supportive atmosphere. He answered every question I had, ensuring clarity and understanding. This coaching is definitely worth the investment, especially considering the potential of the niche we discussed. Vouch for him.

Very happy to hear this feedback, and so excited to see your results!

Hey Roytoy, this looks interesting, but I have some questions:

- Upon purchasing this, will you share some examples of your own channels that you've earned with this?

- It's noted that this isn't a method or eBook, rather 1-on-1 mentoring, but the packages suggest we only get support for either 2 weeks or 2 months?

Yes, I share examples from my personal channels through screen share and teach you how to read the analytics and tweak things to get similar results to mine.

Those who go with the basic package will only require 2 weeks of support as this package is for those who already have a channel but need modifications for it to start getting a good amount of views. After they've made the changes I would need 2 weeks to make sure everything is on the right track and monitor whether they've adequately applied my changes.

However those who go with VIP package are usually people who are starting out and need an extensive special coaching session where I create an optimized strategy for them and teach them everything from scratch. It would take them 1-2 months of extensive support to get adequate data for me to optimize, but after that realistically by that point their channel should have already taken off they'd have all the necessary information from my coaching to keep it going.
