Thread: Would you rather have \$1 Million Dollars or 1 Million Youtube Subscribers?

Roytoy - November 24, 2023, 9:17 am

I think most people would choose the money but I'd probably choose the 1 million Youtube Subscribers because I'd eventually make that $1 million dollars and then some.

What about you?

webdev77 - November 24, 2023, 9:21 am

I'd take the cash, I don't want another job to do. Yes you can make more off youtube with a large audience, but I don't want to have to make videos.

Tails-OS - November 24, 2023, 9:30 am

I will go with 1 million sub on YouTube.

Deany - November 24, 2023, 9:30 am

Gimme the cash. What am I gonna do with the subs? Nothing lol

I've always enjoyed doing that!

How much would you make from marketing your service to your Youtube audience?

Idk someone bought it at sig the sig market lol

Crowned - November 24, 2023, 10:33 am

I'd gladly take the cash. And simply chill afterwards

Syndicate - November 24, 2023, 11:25 am

I would definitely rather take the money, I can invest it or put it into stocks. Like WebDev said, I don't want another job to do lol

Zexo - November 24, 2023, 12:38 pm

If I take the cash I can be racist and rich still.

source - November 24, 2023, 1:34 pm

1 million proper organic real followers > 1 million dollars

we have to take a deeper look into this, it wasn't specified that the subscribers were going to interact with you, what if they were bots? no interaction= no money one hundred percent the money, because then i could buy all the gear and everything to hopefully become popular on youtube, prolly would start a tech channel where i review tech or whatever, yes i know money doesn't mean popularity but i can use that money to buy stuff to review in my videos.

DashPHP - November 24, 2023, 4:20 pm

The 1M subs on youtube is such a gamble. You'd have to ensure your videos engagement level remains really high for a long time to make back that Milli+ surely...

With the 1M Cash, if youtube was still my key interest, i'd just hire a serious digital team.

Trust - November 24, 2023, 5:35 pm

Probably money. Although, I'd rather just have 1M Roytoys.

Dorrance - November 24, 2023, 6:42 pm

I'll take the million dollars.

You see the have diner with or $1 million dollars always. The people having diner always says take the million dollars.

?LEEP - November 24, 2023, 7:07 pm

For this would you rather I'm definitely taking the money. I definitely don't want to have a whole new job. Content creation is an absolute fuck ton of work that either falls on the channel owner or his team which is an expense.

Sirius - November 28, 2023, 4:49 pm

Definitely would take the $1 million.

Jake Johnson - November 28, 2023, 4:57 pm

I would for sure take the cash. I don't have the itch to make YouTube content at the moment.

dexi - November 28, 2023, 6:57 pm

1m subs easy. the amount of sponsor deals and merch sales you could capitalize on would be insane!

shruddylost - November 28, 2023, 7:41 pm

lol Ill take the money, I dont know what to do 1m subs.

beastx000 - February 19, 2024, 1:52 pm

Probably 1 million dollar but you can do a lot with 1 million youtube subscribers

LeetSpeed - February 19, 2024, 6:24 pm

I'm taking the 1 Million in cash. I'll let the money work itself.

Jacked - February 19, 2024, 9:48 pm

Depends on the niche of the channel

Charlie Sheen - February 19, 2024, 9:57 pm

If the YouTube subscribers are heavily engaged and real then I may choose that option. I think if I had that many, I could easily grow from there and expand my earnings making way more than $1 million dollars in the long run.

Hell - February 19, 2024, 10:03 pm

One million subs will help you make more money.

Godofcrypto - February 19, 2024, 11:06 pm

Isn't that the famous question an interviewer asked Mr Beast some time ago ?

If I remember correctly his answer was he would take the money and use them to create much bigger channel than 1 million subscribers since he knows what is he doing. He said that 1 million budget invested in a channel could potentially make about 5 million subscribers.

Eden - February 20, 2024, 12:06 am

I know 1,000,000 YouTube Subscribers can make you a ton of Passive money, but I would rather $1,000,000 up front so I can spend some on myself and buy out a store and work for myself.

Monero-chan - February 20, 2024, 12:41 am

I would take the money, most people do YouTube now to make money, back then people did YouTube because they loved making videos. Modern YouTube doesn't hit the same honestly.

Jamika - February 20, 2024, 2:43 am

Depends on if they are active or not, if highly active then for sure the subscribers

Mald0r0r - February 20, 2024, 3:55 am

I'd take the money for sure. I don't want to make YT videos kelsarock32 - February 20, 2024, 3:01 pm

1M btc please i do not wish to be constantly in the public eye

albiiiiii - February 20, 2024, 6:34 pm

I would take the 1 mill dollars

papersoldier - February 20, 2024, 6:53 pm

followers have way more potential

The better option for most of us would be to take the $1,000,000 since most of us don't have any actual experience Makin' videos on YouTube . So, even if you suddenly have a Mil subs, you will not get any views since nobody knows who you are. You need to develop a connection with your audience if you want them to come back to watch your videos .

I guess I have to agree with this perspective. At the same time, even if you had experience with making videos on Youtube, it might make sense for you to take the $1M and start a new channel with a portion of that investment. I think what I'm saying basically is that if you have the experience, you're good with either options.

Euaggelistes - February 21, 2024, 7:45 am

Don't really care about youtube and followers, so I'd take the cash.

Kelbo - February 21, 2024, 8:33 am

Depends on the circumstances, Am i just handed a 1m following? Or have i gained it? If just given, I'd take the 1m cash easily, but if the following is grown then you can definitely flip that into millions long-term

gwiz - February 21, 2024, 11:00 am

It depends on how fast I could make that money back with YouTube.

1 million subs doesn't mean much if you're only getting 50-150k views per video and the audience isn't growing, this happens to a lot of channels.

I would lean more in the direction of taking the $1 million, then using that money to invest in YouTube if that's still something of interest. Give me 1mil and I'm gonna settle down on a farm and start some kind of family business.

Dharkma - February 22, 2024, 3:37 pm

1 million subs on youtube and ask for 2 dollars from each one.

Popular - February 22, 2024, 4:02 pm

Ill take the subs and hope that they donate/buy merch/etc
