Now this I would love to see - currently forced to upgrade to 11, with a permanent 'Activate Windows' writing on my screen. (I did actually have genuine Windows but had to put in a new HD and don't have the licence key.)

If it was posted by Eran .. then yes, I would say it's useful. I've used things from some of his other threads, and they were all useful.

The catch is that these are default product keys. They are temporary.
