Personally the solar farm, new token, apps, exchanges, fee adjustments, card, new exchange promises were a big deal to even be announced.

The CEO was denied to be let out prison,
Ongoing 5 million dollar lawsuit between CEO and mom for business funds,
Other key figures in this court case are still wanted at large.

Before SFM price went downhill and crashed, SFM started ordering solar wind farms, having hope this is where the majority of 100s of millions went.
Y'all going to jump on board, invest?

Like Celsius Network they may start generating billions off mining ops, but dumping without initial business funds is just shitty.

Absolutely not. Do you see how many red flags you just listed? It's a shitcoin at worst, meme coin at best.

He was also in the capital of the USA meeting with senators and attending a bunch of conferences, it seems to be more organized than what we know at this time.

A lot of copium in this thread. I need to assume that anyone still holding on has lost 95% of their value and have very little left to lose. If not, open your eyes and jump ship

Anyone notice the irony of the naming of "Safe"moon? Scammers always say they are trusted and safe. Maybe they means safe as in vault but I tend to think they knew what they were doing with the naming.

The CEO literally was sent to jail for fraud and stealing and you still want to invest in this? Some people just deserve to lose their money.

Safsmoon is one of the top fraudulent coins to exist as of now. They did not deliver anything and the team was a mess. If you ever thought it would be a smart investment, then there is no hope for you. Please try to learn a little bit more about the cryptocurrency space if you ever feel like investing again.

If you still have anything worth selling, just sell and move on.
