Thread: How do you actually make money

Blueseal890 - December 17, 2023, 4:39 pm

What ways do you make money online that isn't the fake £1000 in 1 day crap, I'm not looking for an easy auto pilot method that leads to an unstable income, I just want to know if there are any ways to make a stable income online self employed that I could do on the side of college. Any help would be appreciated, thanks.

I do online research jobs. You can freelance it or look for companies that hire independent contractors.

Yeah...I looked into this several times and couldn't see a way to make money without a huge investment of time. And even then...not likely.

working or starting businesses is your best bet. Unless you go BH, I doubt most simple resellers make a significant amount of money. Unless they are essentially at a professional fulltime level at it.

Honestly!?

I am a cyber criminal... I do it illegally.

I stole a bunch of money back in the days and bought bitcoin, I was luck.
But right now I don't even use this money, it is still waiting for bitcoin to reach 100k.
On the side, to pay bills, travels and goodies I commit online fraud.
My country has an instant payment system. We take advantage of that by making people pay to us instead of the original destination.

I would love to know more info, and the risk and rewards of doing that.

it depends on the country you live in...
some countries really dont care/have time to go after cyber criminals...

for me the risk is pretty close to zero.. and the best part is that the justice system here is made in a way that if you have money, you will probably get away with it... even if you are caught...

I'm in the UK so that removes this option for me. :-:
